Import Of Truman-MacArthur Talk Stirs World Speculation

President Plans Speech Tomorrow

HONOLULU, Oct. 15 (AP) — President Truman moved around Oahu Island today — a tourist with trappings — while the world buzzed with speculation over the import of his quickie Wake Island talk with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

White House aides said there was more to decisions than met the eye in a presidentially-issued and MacArthur-initialed statement that Mr. Truman flew 7,200 miles to make.

Back home and abroad, however, observers were in many cases almost as puzzled as they were when the President suddenly announced he was flying to the Pacific to discuss the final phases of the Korean campaign with the United Nations commander.

President Truman — between automobile sightseeing trips in the company of Secret Service men, reporters, photographers and military dignitaries, a dip in the Pacific and luncheon — worked on his major foreign policy speech.

Truman Speaks Tuesday

The speech may give a clearer picture of what occurred during the less than three-hour talk with MacArthur on the sun-scorched far Pacific outpost.

The President will make his speech at the San Francisco Opera House, birthplace of the United Nations, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday (11:30 p.m. EST) before flying back to Washington Wednesday morning.

He takes off from Hickam Field, near Honolulu, aboard the "Independence" at 6:30 a.m. tomorrow (11:30 a.m. EST).

Three points of high policy emerged from the brief, informal talks between the 66-year-old President and the 70-year-old United Nations commander. The points on which the General was consulted were contained in a statement issued after the conference by the President, to which Gen. MacArthur concurred.

Points Are Listed

These were:

1. Steps necessary to bring peaceful reconstruction and security to a unified Korea as rapidly as possible and to get American armed forces out of Korea as soon as their United Nations mission is completed.

2. To move forward with preliminary negotiations for a peace treaty "to which Japan is entitled."

3. Means by which the United States can assist the United Nations to promote and maintain international peace and security throughout the Pacific area.

East Germans 'Endorse' Reds In 'Ja' Election

Communist Regime Receive 95% Vote

BERLIN, Oct. 15 (AP) — East Germany's Red government announced tonight that nearly 95 per cent of voters in the Soviet zone endorsed the unopposed Communist national front in today's election. It was not a final count.

An estimated 13,000,000 East Germans, under the close scrutiny of Russian troops and Communist police, went to the polls in a "ja" election unprecedented since Adolf Hitler's regime.

The voters returned to office for a four-year term a parliament of 70 per cent Communists and 30 per cent collaborators. The parliament had been set up by the Russians just a year ago without any election.

No Way To Vote No

Voting headquarters of the east zone announced the tabulation nearly two hours before the polls closed at 8 p.m. (2 p.m. Eastern Standard Time). Since there was no way to vote no on the single list ticket, participation in the election meant a vote for the current Communist parliament. A headquarters announcement said "never before had the population of the East German democratic republic shown such unity."

Twenty Russian divisions and 195,000 "peoples' police" stood guard as Soviet zone masses paraded behind Communist banners and brass bands to vote for a single picked list of parliamentary candidates.

Every precaution was taken to prevent the voting of opposition ballots and the election guaranteed the return of Moscow-trained Germans to supreme governmental power for another four years.

"Open Unanimous Voting"

The ballot handed voters carried only the names of approved candidates — 70 per cent Communists, 30 per cent Christian Democrats and Liberal Democrats who have no effective voice in east zone policy.

Beneath the list was the single statement: "For peace and the five-year plan." There was no place to mark a "no" vote — in fact, the voters were instructed not to mark the ballot at all.

By the millions, in 9,000 towns and villages of the zone, East Germans dropped this ballot directly into the box, obeying Communist dictates of "open unanimous voting." And it was open in the sense that there were no closed booths in which to do the voting.

New Pittsburgh Paper Makes Appearance

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15 (AP) — Strike shutdown of Pittsburgh's three daily newspapers resulted in a new publication today.

The Pittsburgh Daily Reporter made its first appearance on news stands under sponsorship of unions representing more than 2,500 newspaper employes thrown out of work by the strike.

Nearly-Blinded Pilot Lands Jet

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 15 (AP) — A jet pilot nearly blinded by a cockpit explosion set his fighter plane down perfectly here today. When the wheels stopped, he fainted.

The pilot, Maj. Thornton Peck, 30, Granger, Tex., was flying in company with another Air Force plane about 100 miles south of here when the canopy of Peck's F-84 Thunderjet let go.

The blast — apparently caused by increased pressure inside the canopy — sent flying plexiglass ripping through the cockpit, tearing a deep gash above Peck's eye. The force also tore off his crash helmet and throat microphone, leaving him without radio communication.

Lt. Donald Watt, 25, his wing mate, saw something was wrong when Peck's plane began losing altitude. Watt guided the half-blind Peck into the Kanawha airport.

Peck was treated for the face cut that took five stitches to close, shock and loss of blood. He said the blast of cold air through the broken canopy "nearly froze" him.

Heart Attack Fatal To John J. Raskob

CENTREVILLE, Md., Oct. 15 (AP) — John J. Raskob (above), who helped teach America how to buy automobiles on the installment plan and onetime Democratic national chairman, died early today. He was 71.

The former chairman of the Finance Committee of General Motors, associate of the du Ponts of Wilmington, friend of Al Smith and one of the nation's leading industrialists, suffered a heart attack at his Eastern Shore estate near here.

He had arrived at the 3,000-acre estate Friday with a group of friends from New York. Last night he suffered what he believed to be an attack of indigestion.

He became worse and died before Dr. H. F. McPherson arrived from his home in Centreville.

U. S. Power Shift From Far East To Europe Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur apparently have agreed on plans for shifting the bulk of American military power from the Far East to Western Europe immediately after the United Nations victory in Korea is completed.

That is one of the future lines of action clearly indicated by the President's statement on the Wake Island conference this weekend. MacArthur initiated the document, thereby lending his backing to it.

Along with the emphasis on getting United States forces out of Korea there appeared heavy stress on United Nations action, as distinguished from moves by this country on its own, on problems of the Western Pacific.

This may provide the clue to the main point of the Truman-MacArthur discussion over the highly controversial question of the future of Formosa. For if President Truman followed the line which has been laid down by his advisers here he undoubtedly told MacArthur that the United States intends to seek a peaceful settlement of the Formosan issue through the United Nations, does not intend to involve United States forces any more deeply in defense of the island, and will rely on United Nations protection to dissuade the Chinese Reds from trying to take Formosa by force.

There was no immediate clue to just how close the conferees were on this point, though their statement referred to "the very complete unanimity of view" which speeded up their talks.

MacArthur has taken the stand that Formosa in friendly hands is vital to U. S. security.

Report Reds Massing Near Turkey And Iran

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 15 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports received here tonight said Russia is massing troops on her frontier with Turkey and Iran. The reports came from Kars, a Turkish town near the frontier.

These reports said six divisions from Leninakan in Soviet Armenia were drawn up along the Turkish border just east of Kars. The reports said four of the divisions, all trained in guerrilla fighting, and one company of light artillery, were encamped at Yerivan near the triangle where Russia, Turkey and Iran come together.

Probe Threatened

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15 (AP) — Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY), chairman of a House committee that has been investigating the newsprint situation, said today that if American companies follow the lead of a Canadian company in raising newsprint prices he will ask for prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

N. Y. Governor Says He Won't Try 3rd Time

Makes Statements During TV Interview

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said flatly today he would not run for President in 1952 and would back Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination.

"Under no circumstance that I can conceive," he said, "will I accept the nomination for President in 1952, and I doubt if there is any possibility the situation would arise thereafter."

The statements were made during an interview on the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet the Press" television show.

He added that "I don't believe a man should be nominated more than twice for the presidency."

Ends Speculation

There has been speculation that Dewey, defeated in 1944 and 1948, might have decided to run for re-election as governor with an eye on the 1952 presidential election.

Asked whether he had "any candidates in mind" for the Republican nomination in 1952, Dewey replied:

"Well, it's a little early but we have in New York a very great world figure, the president of Columbia University, one of the greatest soldiers of our history, a fine educator, a man who really understands the problems of the world."

He added that "if I should be re-elected governor and have influence with the New York delegation, I would recommend to them that they support Gen. Eisenhower for president if he would accept the draft."

Didn't Consult "Ike"

Asked if he had talked with Eisenhower about whether he would be willing to accept the nomination, Dewey said he had not. At Eisenhower's home, a houseboy relayed a message to the General on Dewey's statement.

The houseboy returned and said

Israeli Cabinet Leader Resigns

JERUSALEM, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion resigned tonight, causing Israel's first cabinet crisis since the new state was founded in May, 1948.

President Chaim Weizmann received Ben-Gurion at Weizmann's home in Rehovot. After consulting with all party leaders, Weizmann asked Ben-Gurion to form a new cabinet for presentation to the Knesset, the Israeli parliament. The Knesset reconvenes here tomorrow after a two-month recess.

Religious bloc members of the 12-member outgoing cabinet notified Ben-Gurion after a heated party caucus today that they were unwilling to accept a recent cabinet change proposed in the face of Israel's economic and financial troubles. For that reason, three bloc-member ministers said, they were withdrawing from the government. Ben - Gurion immediately tendered his own resignation. The request for him to make another attempt at forming a government had been anticipated here.

'Flying Sauceritis' Hits Britain's Mass-Circulation Sunday Papers

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Britain's mass-circulation Sunday newspapers broke out today in a rash of flying sauceritis.

Four of the weeklies, with a combined circulation of nearly seven million, devoted much of their front pages to a debate on this already much-debated subject.

Both Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express and the Sunday Dispatch continued independent series of articles they started last week, in which they warned that other planets "may be spying on us."

On the opposite tack, the Reynolds News and the Sunday Chronicle gave equal space to what the former called "The Great Flying Saucer Myth."

The Express and Dispatch centered today's versions on the unexplained death of U. S. Fighter Pilot Captain Thomas Mantell while chasing a "mysterious object" over Fort Knox, Ky., January 7, 1948.

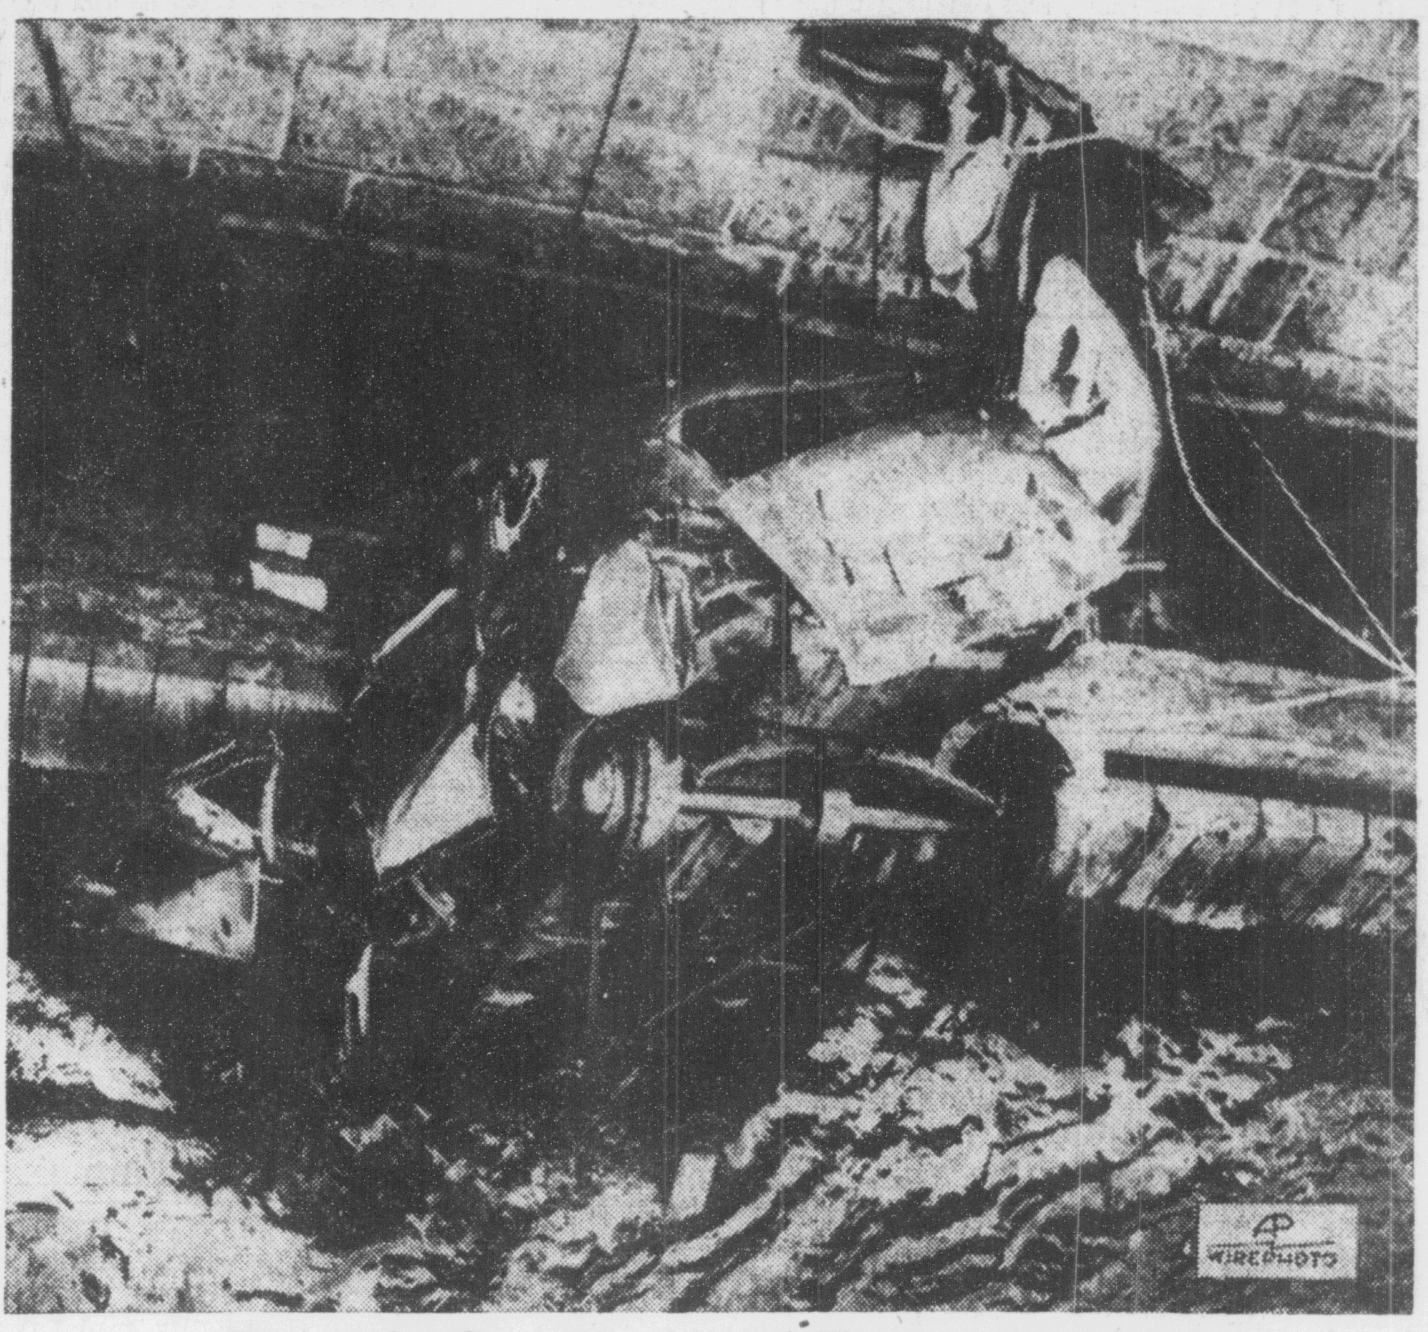
"I am still waiting patiently for reports to come in of a flying saucer having landed anywhere," he told the Brighton and Hove Natural History Society.

"It is very significant that most of the reports of flying saucers appear to have emanated from a country where mass hysteria is rather prevalent."



Death Car Raised From River

Two women and a man plunged to their deaths in the Raritan River, Perth Amboy, N. J., in this auto which police said was shoved through an open drawbridge by another car. The legs of one of the victims can be seen protruding from a shattered door as the death car was raised from 30 feet of water.

Reds Reported Taking U.S. POWs Into Manchuria

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, Monday, Oct. 16 (AP)—One hundred American prisoners were reported today being carried north to Manchuria by retreating Red Koreans who massacred 800 South Korean prisoners near Wonsan on the Korean east coast.

A South Korean survivor of the massacre said he heard the North Koreans planning to take the Americans into Manchuria.

The report of the American prisoners was made to the Korean military advisory group by Col. Glenn Rogers, senior American officer with the South Korean First Corps.

Col. Rogers asked for a United Nations team to investigate the report.

The survivor of the massacre said the North Koreans started north from Wonsan by train with the 800 South Koreans and 100 Americans.

He said they abandoned the train north of Wonsan, near Yongchung, and executed 300 South Koreans. The survivor said the North Koreans then poured gasoline on the 300 bodies and set them afire.

The 500 remaining South Koreans and 100 Americans were marched on foot to Yongchung, the survivor said. There the 500 republican troops were massacred by the North Koreans, the prisoner added.

Hurricane Developing 550 Miles From Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP) — The Miami Weather Bureau today reported a hurricane is developing about 80 miles west of Jamaica or about 550 miles south of Miami.

It advised hurricane precautions for the Northwestern Caribbean sea area, especially in the Cuba-Jamaica region.

Colleen To Marry Son Of Minister

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15 (AP) — Colleen Townsend, who abandoned a movie career to serve in religious fields, is going to marry a minister's son.

Dr. Louis H. Evans, pastor of the Hollywood First Presbyterian Church, announced from his pulpit today that Miss Townsend, 21, and his son, Louis H. Evans Jr., 24, are engaged and the wedding is set for Christmas.

The two met while they were students at Hollywood high school and have been "going together" for the last three years. Young Evans is now in his first year at San Francisco Theological Seminary, a Presbyterian institution.

While Miss Townsend was a high school student her picture on a magazine cover won her a film contract. She was a featured player when she announced last February that she was quitting films "because Christ is first in my life and I want to be where I can serve him."

Salesman Hazy About Beatings

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—A remorseful young salesman with a hangover still was hazy today about going on a drunken rampage and clubbing five women and children.

Police said, however, that Ennis Gillum, 26, had admitted enough to account for five of a series of beatings by a prowler who terrorized a fashionable Northwest Detroit area Friday night.

The handsome tobacco salesman was comforted by his wife, Irene, who declared she would stick by him. The only reason he could give for going berserk, police said, was "being crazy drunk."

Gillum was held for investigation of felonious assault. Police said he would be charged with murder in event of the death of one of his victims.

Gillum has not been told that Mrs. Dorothy Julian, 47, hovers near death from a skull fracture. Police said the other victims would recover.

Police said Gillum was in a drunken stupor when arrested at his home here yesterday. He was trapped by detectives and a sharp-eyed 13-year-old boy who remembered that the man who beat his sister wore a convention delegate's badge.

CIO And "Big Steel" Open Talks Today

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray tackles "Big Steel" tomorrow in another wage battle.

Mammoth United States Steel Corporation sends its bargaining teams into conference at 10 a. m. (EST) with the CIO United Steelworkers which Murray also heads.

The white-haired Murray is taking personal charge here to steer his fight for "a very healthy and substantial increase."

Tight New Curbs On Credit Will Go Into Effect Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Tight new credit curbs — more money down for household appliances, bigger monthly payments on cars — go into effect tomorrow.

The Federal Reserve Board says they're necessary to control inflation. Many businessmen, especially auto dealers, say they're not necessary and that they'll cut buying too drastically.

A first round of restrictions on installment-plan buying was put back into effect only a month ago. The new rules tighten them to this extent:

15 Months To Pay For Car

1—New and used cars must be paid for in 15 months instead of the previous 21. The one-third down payment requirement stays in force. Finance companies say it now will take about $90 a month to buy even the lowest priced new cars. The rules are as stiff as any of World War II.

2—The down payment on television sets and other major household appliances now must be at least 25 per cent and payments must be completed in 15 months. Formerly the down payment was 15 per cent and the payoff period 18 months.

3—On furniture, the down payment jumps from 10 to 15 per cent and the payoff period is cut from 18 months to 15.

Action Called Too Hasty

The effect of credit controls is greatly widened by another new rule making the higher down payments necessary on articles costing $50 or more. Until now the controls haven't affected articles costing less than $100.

Maury Nee, Washington, a spokesman for the Commerce Department's Retail Industry Committee, said tonight that the Federal Reserve Board was too hasty in tightening controls.

Nee said consumer prices have risen only 1.7 per cent since the start of the Korean war and "hysteria about rising prices in unwarranted."

Enemy Falls Back 50 Miles From Capital

Fierce Daylight Fighting Reported

TOKYO, Monday, Oct. 16 (AP) — American foot cavalrymen in fierce daylight fighting forced North Korean troops to withdraw Sunday afternoon northwest of Namchongjim, 50 air miles southeast of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters reported the First Cavalry Division ran into stubborn Communist mortar, machine-gun and small-arms fire.

Leif Erickson, AP correspondent, reported the developments in a brief telephone call from headquarters. Communications from the front remained scanty.

Erickson said the Eighth Army spokesman reported the North Koreans fought from well dug-in positions but the American attack finally drove them into a withdrawal by mid-afternoon Sunday.

South Koreans Advance

Some enemy forces fell back towards Sinmak, 11 miles north of Namchonjom, while others retreated towards Singye, 14 miles to the northeast.

Singye was reported taken Saturday by the South Korean Republican First Division, which today pressed on five and seven mlies northwest and north.

The South Korean First is operating separately from the First Cavalry.

The other two tips of the four-pronged United Nations drive towards the Communist capital also met opposition, but advanced.

The Republican Third Division troops pushing westward from captured Wonsan, important east coast port, ran into a tank-supported Red column Sunday but beat it off 60 air miles east of Pyongyang.

ROK Forces North of Koksan

The Communists struck well to the rear of advance South Korean units at the town of Tongyang with an estimated regiment of troops. Thereafter, however, the enemy was driven back along a road south of the main Wonsan-Pyongyang highway.

The republic Eighth Division, meanwhile, was reported to be north of Koksan, also 50 miles southeast of Pyongyang, and the First Division had elements in Taepyong after a five-mile advance, Erickson said. Taepyong is five miles northwest of Singye.

The First Division also was reported to have troops in Hwasong, seven miles north of Singye.

The South Korean Eighth and First Divisions, moving northwest in the center of the four-armed push on Pyongyang, were said to be meeting considerably less resistance than the American First Cavalry to the west of the ROK units smashing westward from the Wonsan area.

Cop Kills Vet In Train Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15 (AP) — A rookie policeman, struggling to unholster his service pistol, and a Navy veteran, armed with a knife, fought a death battle aboard a crowded Broad street subway train today. The veteran was killed.

Terrified passengers cowered at one end of the car as Edward Rouch, 23, the policeman, and Samuel S. Ellis, Jr., 22, grappled.

The two fighters were locked in a tussle on the floor as the train pulled into the Spring Garden street station. Two muffled shots mingled with the screams of the horrified riders and Ellis collapsed.

He died about an hour later in Hahnemann hospital.

Rouch came out of the fight with knife wounds and cuts.

Sub Defense Problem Near Solution, Navy Chief Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Matthews said today that the United States is on the verge of solving the submarine defense problem.

Matthews said in a television broadcast that there is "reason for optimism" in what he called the "number one study of the U. S. Navy" and went on to say:

"I can assure you that there are devices now emerging from the experimental stage which promise to return to anti-submarine warfare the advantages formerly held over surface ships by modern submarines."

Matthews gave no details except to say that the development involves "modern navigation and electronics."

The problem is how to locate a submerged submarine precisely enough and far enough away for effective measures against it.

The cabinet officer appeared on the NBC program "Battle Report" along with Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, who was interviewed by Dr. John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman.

Mrs. Mesta, making her television debut, said that since returning to the United States recently she had felt "an air of determination, coupled with a feeling of urgency" over the state of the world.

She said Americans now appear "determined to see this thing through and believe that we must strengthen our defenses as promptly as possible."

Girl Walks Out On Wedding, Elopes With Another Man

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 15 (AP) — A 19-year-old bride-to-be who ran away with another man on the eve of her elaborate wedding has already married her Johnny-come-lately bridegroom, his mother said today.

Mrs. Ludwig Lauther said her son, Roland, telephoned her today to say that he and Bernice Kurdes were married and very happy. Mrs. Lauther said she did not know where the wedding took place or where the runaway Newark couple is now.

Bernice left her home here Friday night, less than 24 hours before she was to have married Robert Wallman.

Her marriage to Wallman had been planned for about six months. It was set for 5 p.m. yesterday. The flowers were ordered. The clergyman, caterer and photographer were all ready. A reception for 200 persons was planned.

Then she disappeared and yesterday her parents got a telegram from Elkton, Md., saying her wedding to Wallman was all off. She was going to marry Lauther instead, but didn't say whether it would be in Elkton or elsewhere.

She and Lauther worked together at a Newark brewery. Bernice's father said he didn't know Lauther.

Wallman, the displaced groom-to-be, appeared to be taking the walk-out in good stride.

"I'm happy I found out," he said yesterday.

Weather Forecast

Ends Speculation

There has been speculation that Dewey, defeated in 1944 and 1948, might have decided to run for re-election as governor with an eye on the 1952 presidential election.

Asked whether he had "any candidates in mind" for the Republican nomination in 1952, Dewey replied:

"Well, it's a little early but we have in New York a very great world figure, the president of Columbia University, one of the greatest soldiers of our history, a fine educator, a man who really understands the problems of the world."

He added that "if I should be re-elected governor and have influence with the New York delegation, I would recommend to them that they support Gen. Eisenhower for president if he would accept the draft."

Didn't Consult "Ike"

Asked if he had talked with Eisenhower about whether he would be willing to accept the nomination, Dewey said he had not. At Eisenhower's home, a houseboy relayed a message to the General on Dewey's statement.

The houseboy returned and said

Israeli Cabinet Leader Resigns

JERUSALEM, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion resigned tonight, causing Israel's first cabinet crisis since the new state was founded in May, 1948.

President Chaim Weizmann received Ben-Gurion at Weizmann's home in Rehovot. After consulting with all party leaders, Weizmann asked Ben-Gurion to form a new cabinet for presentation to the Knesset, the Israeli parliament. The Knesset reconvenes here tomorrow after a two-month recess.

Religious bloc members of the 12-member outgoing cabinet notified Ben-Gurion after a heated party caucus today that they were unwilling to accept a recent cabinet change proposed in the face of Israel's economic and financial troubles. For that reason, three bloc-member ministers said, they were withdrawing from the government. Ben - Gurion immediately tendered his own resignation. The request for him to make another attempt at forming a government had been anticipated here.

'Flying Sauceritis' Hits Britain's Mass-Circulation Sunday Papers

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Britain's mass-circulation Sunday newspapers broke out today in a rash of flying sauceritis.

Four of the weeklies, with a combined circulation of nearly seven million, devoted much of their front pages to a debate on this already much-debated subject.

Both Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express and the Sunday Dispatch continued independent series of articles they started last week, in which they warned that other planets "may be spying on us."

On the opposite tack, the Reynolds News and the Sunday Chronicle gave equal space to what the former called "The Great Flying Saucer Myth."

The Express and Dispatch centered today's versions on the unexplained death of U. S. Fighter Pilot Captain Thomas Mantell while chasing a "mysterious object" over Fort Knox, Ky., January 7, 1948.

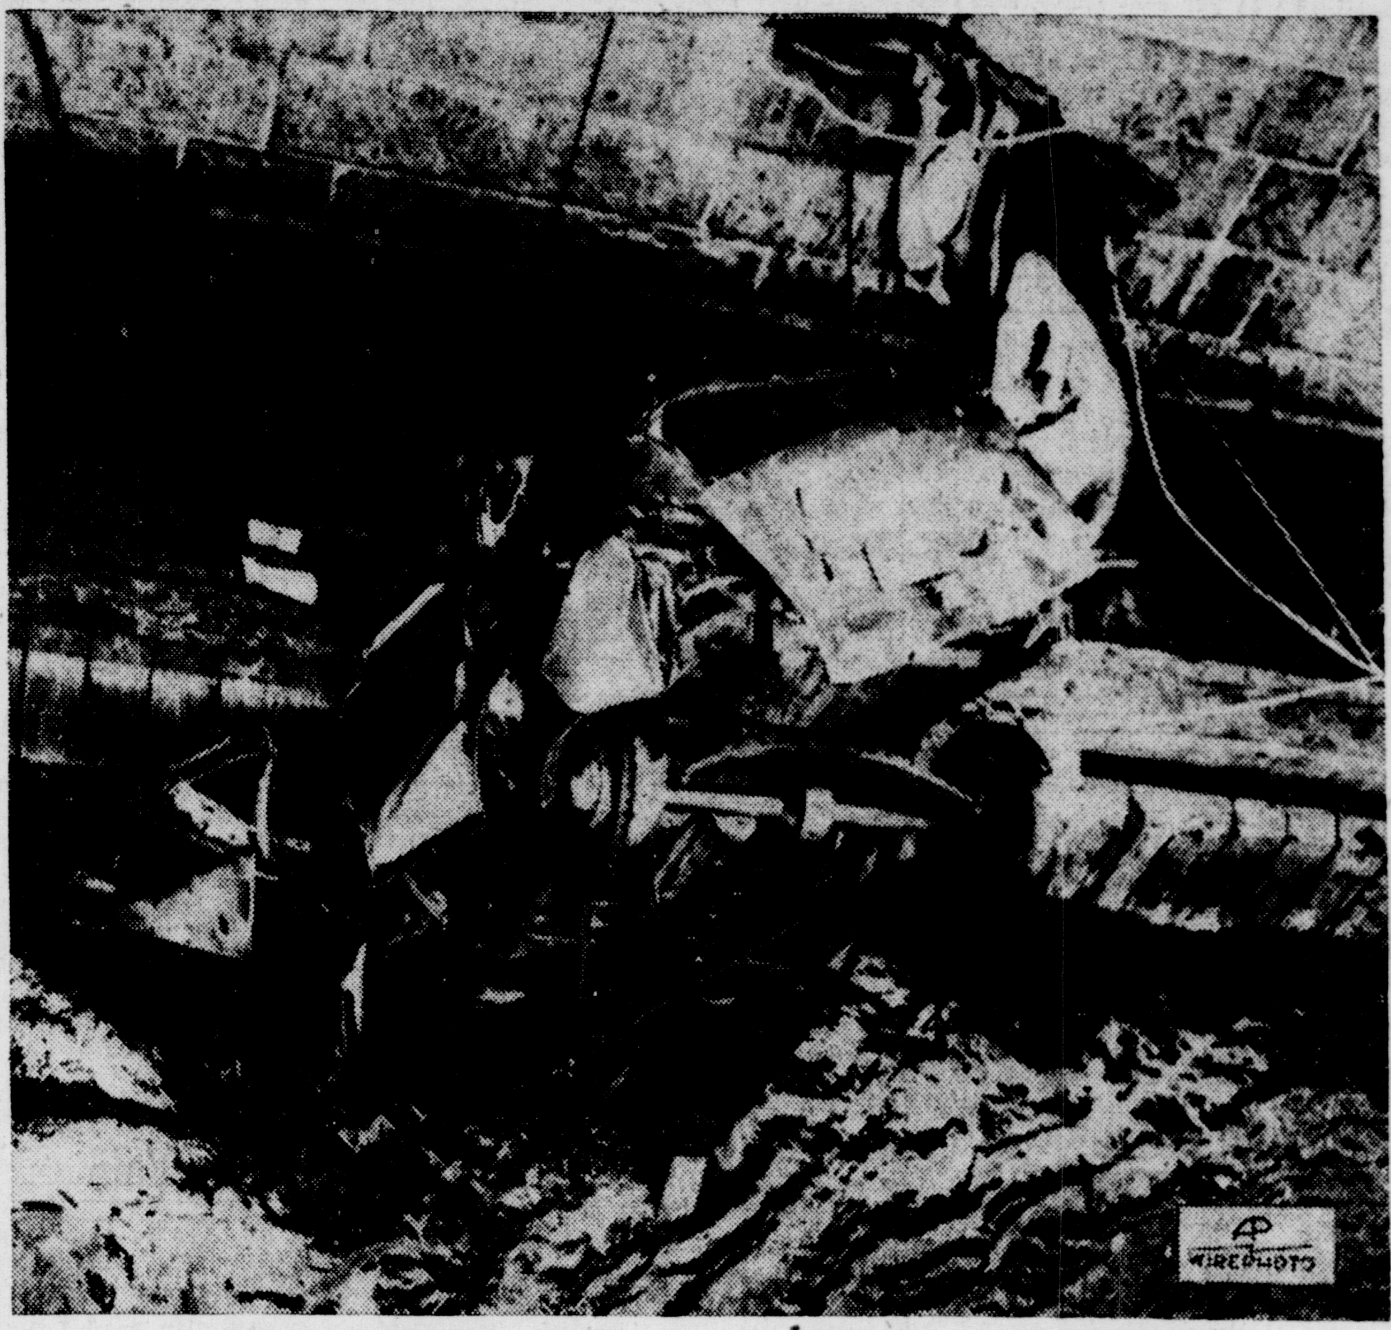
Sir Harold Spencer Jones, Britain's astronomer royal, had today's final say on the subject.

"I am still waiting patiently for reports to come in of a flying saucer having landed anywhere," he told the Brighton and Hove Natural History Society.

"It is very significant that most of the reports of flying saucers appear to have emanated from a country where mass hysteria is rather prevalent."



Death Car Raised From River

Two women and a man plunged to their deaths in the Raritan River, Perth Amboy, N. J., in this auto which police said was shoved through an open drawbridge by another car. The legs of one of the victims can be seen protruding from a shattered door as the death car was raised from 30 feet of water.

Reds Reported Taking U.S. POWs Into Manchuria

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA, Monday, Oct. 16 (AP)—One hundred American prisoners were reported today being carried north to Manchuria by retreating Red Koreans who massacred 800 South Korean prisoners near Wonsan on the Korean east coast.

A South Korean survivor of the massacre said he heard the North Koreans planning to take the Americans into Manchuria.

The report of the American prisoners was made to the Korean military advisory group by Col. Glenn Rogers, senior American officer with the South Korean First Corps.

Col. Rogers asked for a United Nations team to investigate the report.

The survivor of the massacre said the North Koreans started north from Wonsan by train with the 800 South Koreans and 100 Americans.

He said they abandoned the train north of Wonsan, near Yongchung, and executed 300 South Koreans. The survivor said the North Koreans then poured gasoline on the 300 bodies and set them afire.

The 500 remaining South Koreans and 100 Americans were marched on foot to Yongchung, the survivor said. There the 500 republican troops were massacred by the North Koreans, the prisoner added.

Hurricane Developing 550 Miles From Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP) — The Miami Weather Bureau today reported a hurricane is developing about 80 miles west of Jamaica or about 550 miles south of Miami.

It advised hurricane precautions for the Northwestern Caribbean sea area, especially in the Cuba-Jamaica region.

Colleen To Marry Son Of Minister

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15 (AP) — Colleen Townsend, who abandoned a movie career to serve in religious fields, is going to marry a minister's son.

Dr. Louis H. Evans, pastor of the Hollywood First Presbyterian Church, announced from his pulpit today that Miss Townsend, 21, and his son, Louis H. Evans Jr., 24, are engaged and the wedding is set for Christmas.

The two met while they were students at Hollywood high school and have been "going together" for the last three years. Young Evans is now in his first year at San Francisco Theological Seminary, a Presbyterian institution.

While Miss Townsend was a high school student her picture on a magazine cover won her a film contract. She was a featured player when she announced last February that she was quitting films "because Christ is first in my life and I want to be where I can serve him."

Salesman Hazy About Beatings

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—A remorseful young salesman with a hangover still was hazy today about going on a drunken rampage and clubbing five women and children.

Police said, however, that Ennis Gillum, 26, had admitted enough to account for five of a series of beatings by a prowler who terrorized a fashionable Northwest Detroit area Friday night.

The handsome tobacco salesman was comforted by his wife, Irene, who declared she would stick by him. The only reason he could give for going berserk, police said, was "being crazy drunk."

Gillum was held for investigation of felonious assault. Police said he would be charged with murder in event of the death of one of his victims.

Gillum has not been told that Mrs. Dorothy Julian, 47, hovers near death from a skull fracture. Police said the other victims would recover.

Police said Gillum was in a drunken stupor when arrested at his home here yesterday. He was trapped by detectives and a sharp-eyed 13-year-old boy who remembered that the man who beat his sister wore a convention delegate's badge.

CIO And "Big Steel" Open Talks Today

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray tackles "Big Steel" tomorrow in another wage battle.

Mammoth United States Steel Corporation sends its bargaining teams into conference at 10 a. m. (EST) with the CIO United Steelworkers which Murray also heads.

The white-haired Murray is taking personal charge here to steer his fight for "a very healthy and substantial increase."

Tight New Curbs On Credit Will Go Into Effect Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Tight new credit curbs — more money down for household appliances, bigger monthly payments on cars — go into effect tomorrow.

The Federal Reserve Board says they're necessary to control inflation. Many businessmen, especially auto dealers, say they're not necessary and that they'll cut buying too drastically.

A first round of restrictions on installment-plan buying was put back into effect only a month ago. The new rules tighten them to this extent:

15 Months To Pay For Car

1—New and used cars must be paid for in 15 months instead of the previous 21. The one-third down payment requirement stays in force. Finance companies say it now will take about $90 a month to buy even the lowest priced new cars. The rules are as stiff as any of World War II.

2—The down payment on television sets and other major household appliances now must be at least 25 per cent and payments must be completed in 15 months. Formerly the down payment was 15 per cent and the payoff period 18 months.

3—On furniture, the down payment jumps from 10 to 15 per cent and the payoff period is cut from 18 months to 15.

Action Called Too Hasty

The effect of credit controls is greatly widened by another new rule making the higher down payments necessary on articles costing $50 or more. Until now the controls haven't affected articles costing less than $100.

Maury Nee, Washington, a spokesman for the Commerce Department's Retail Industry Committee, said tonight that the Federal Reserve Board was too hasty in tightening controls.

Nee said consumer prices have risen only 1.7 per cent since the start of the Korean war and "hysteria about rising prices in unwarranted."

Enemy Falls Back 50 Miles From Capital

Fierce Daylight Fighting Reported

TOKYO, Monday, Oct. 16 (AP) — American foot cavalrymen in fierce daylight fighting forced North Korean troops to withdraw Sunday afternoon northwest of Namchongjim, 50 air miles southeast of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters reported the First Cavalry Division ran into stubborn Communist mortar, machine-gun and small-arms fire.

Leif Erickson, AP correspondent, reported the developments in a brief telephone call from headquarters. Communications from the front remained scanty.

Erickson said the Eighth Army spokesman reported the North Koreans fought from well dug-in positions but the American attack finally drove them into a withdrawal by mid-afternoon Sunday.

South Koreans Advance

Some enemy forces fell back towards Sinmak, 11 miles north of Namchonjom, while others retreated towards Singye, 14 miles to the northeast.

Singye was reported taken Saturday by the South Korean Republican First Division, which today pressed on five and seven mlies northwest and north.

The South Korean First is operating separately from the First Cavalry.

The other two tips of the four-pronged United Nations drive towards the Communist capital also met opposition, but advanced.

The Republican Third Division troops pushing westward from captured Wonsan, important east coast port, ran into a tank-supported Red column Sunday but beat it off 60 air miles east of Pyongyang.

ROK Forces North of Koksan

The Communists struck well to the rear of advance South Korean units at the town of Tongyang with an estimated regiment of troops. Thereafter, however, the enemy was driven back along a road south of the main Wonsan-Pyongyang highway.

The republic Eighth Division, meanwhile, was reported to be north of Koksan, also 50 miles southeast of Pyongyang, and the First Division had elements in Taepyong after a five-mile advance, Erickson said. Taepyong is five miles northwest of Singye.

The First Division also was reported to have troops in Hwasong, seven miles north of Singye.

The South Korean Eighth and First Divisions, moving northwest in the center of the four-armed push on Pyongyang, were said to be meeting considerably less resistance than the American First Cavalry to the west of the ROK units smashing westward from the Wonsan area.

Cop Kills Vet In Train Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15 (AP) — A rookie policeman, struggling to unholster his service pistol, and a Navy veteran, armed with a knife, fought a death battle aboard a crowded Broad street subway train today. The veteran was killed.

Terrified passengers cowered at one end of the car as Edward Rouch, 23, the policeman, and Samuel S. Ellis, Jr., 22, grappled.

The two fighters were locked in a tussle on the floor as the train pulled into the Spring Garden street station. Two muffled shots mingled with the screams of the horrified riders and Ellis collapsed.

He died about an hour later in Hahnemann hospital.

Rouch came out of the fight with knife wounds and cuts.

Girl Walks Out On Wedding, Elopes With Another Man

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 15 (AP) — A 19-year-old bride-to-be who ran away with another man on the eve of her elaborate wedding has already married her Johnny-come-lately bridegroom, his mother said today.

Mrs. Ludwig Lauther said her son, Roland, telephoned her today to say that he and Bernice Kurdes were married and very happy. Mrs. Lauther said she did not know where the wedding took place or where the runaway Newark couple is now.

Bernice left her home here Friday night, less than 24 hours before she was to have married Robert Wallman.

Her marriage to Wallman had been planned for about six months. It was set for 5 p.m. yesterday. The flowers were ordered. The clergyman, caterer and photographer were all ready. A reception for 200 persons was planned.

Then she disappeared and yesterday her parents got a telegram from Elkton, Md., saying her wedding to Wallman was all off. She was going to marry Lauther instead, but didn't say whether it would be in Elkton or elsewhere.

She and Lauther worked together at a Newark brewery. Bernice's father said he didn't know Lauther.

Wallman, the displaced groom-to-be, appeared to be taking the walkout in good stride.

"I'm happy I found out," he said yesterday.

Sub Defense Problem Near Solution, Navy Chief Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Matthews said today that the United States is on the verge of solving the submarine defense problem.

Matthews said in a television broadcast that there is "reason for optimism" in what he called the "number one study of the U. S. Navy" and went on to say:

"I can assure you that there are devices now emerging from the experimental stage which promise to return to anti-submarine warfare the advantages formerly held over surface ships by modern submarines."

Matthews gave no details except to say that the development involves "modern navigation and electronics."

The cabinet officer appeared on the NBC program "Battle Report" along with Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, who was interviewed by Dr. John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman.

Mrs. Mesta, making her television debut, said that since returning to the United States recently she had felt "an air of determination, coupled with a feeling of urgency" over the state of the world.

She said Americans now appear "determined to see this thing through and believe that we must strengthen our defenses as promptly as possible."

TRYGVE LIE, the secretary general of the United Nations, may be no bargain whose name will ring down the corridors of Macy's and Gimbels. But get a load of the guy that fellow Malik nominated as Trigger's successor, after vetoing Lie for another term as secretary-general of U.N.

Man named Zygmunt Modzelewski was Malik's choice.

Moddy took part in the sellout of Poland to the Soviet Union. As deputy foreign minister of the abysmal Polish Communist government group that went to Moscow in mid-August, 1945, to talk things over with Molotov, he agreed to give Russia 51 per cent share, and control, in the ownership and management of the German properties Poland had been given at Potsdam to offset the steal of the eastern section of the nation by Russia.

It had been generally forgotten at that time that Russia had originally invaded and taken control of that eastern section when it was an ally of Hitler.

The remaining democratic leaders in Poland raised so much noise about this deal in which Modzelewski took part that Molotov began to fear the U. S., though busy at the time defeating Japan, might notice and even get angry.

So a big compromise was made. Instead, Poland would give Russia 12,000,000 tons of Polish coal every year during the Red army's occupation of Germany. That meant most of Poland's export coal, which other countries were willing to pay for. Later, after more objections, Russia offered to pay the cost of mining it—about six dollars a ton.

With one maneuver or another, this later was cut to $1.25 a ton, though by that time Denmark and Sweden were offering up to $16 a ton. But the Poles (who needed the money) were not permitted to take it. Sweden even offered transport, food, tools and electrical supplies, to help the rehabilitation of the country. Modzelewski helped say no.

That was Malik's nominee.

By 1948 Modzelewski had progressed far enough in the Polish Communist government to be the foreign minister and a member of the Polish Politburo made up of Wladyslaw Gomulka, Jakob Berman, Roman Zambrowski, Hilary Minc, Boleslaw Bierut, Stanislaw Radkierwicz and a few others too hard to typewrite.

That is Malik's nominee.

To a pleasanter topic, it was nice to read that the Boy Scouts of America, Region 3, presented their silver antelope award to Fred Waring for distinguished service to boyhood.

A lot of us who listen to the radio or watch TV take Waring and his remarkable group of artists too much for granted. Former Boy Scout Fred's been around 30 years—as long a run as there has been in show business—and he's better today than he ever was, which is something.

There's never been an off-color remark or a suggestive song on his show. Just the best popular music one can hear today, and just about the finest entertainment on television.

Waring can do more things well and successfully than anybody I know. In addition to his work on the air he has a music business, a college for glee clubs, operates a super golf course and resort at Shawnee, Pa., and is the course's best player.

Everybody in New York (wellllll, nearly everybody) seems to be wearing a gabardine topcoat these days. They have thus become interchangeable in saloons and other public places. If you don't get your own back, what's the dif? You get one just like it. The only difference in gabardine topcoats these days is what's in the pockets . . . And I'm sorry to report that I recently blew one with four Kleenexes for one with only two.

Picked up one at '21' the other night and when I didn't recognize the Kleenex brought it back and demanded the one I had checked. Turned out that the one I had checked was somebody else's.

Funds Are Allocated For Rec Area Near Lonaconing

William H. Johnson, district forester for Western Maryland, said over the weekend the Board of Public Works for the State of Maryland has allocated funds for the development of a recreation area located near Lonaconing. This recreation area comprises the ground recently donated to the State by the George's Creek Coal Company and Alvin C. Green of Lonaconing.

Plans for the development of this recreation area were recently announced by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., and have been approved by the Department of Forestry and Parks. This recreation area is the first such area established in Allegany County. It is expected that similar areas in other parts of the county will be provided later.

The development of this project will create employment for approximately 25 persons in the Lonaconing area and Rev. C. H. Goshorn, Rev. Charles W. Bogan and Rev. Amos Stone, all of Lonaconing, have served as an advisory committee in securing those who will be employed. Preference has been given to members of heads of families in Lonaconing and vicinity whose needs are greatest and who have been unable to secure other employment.

Johnson states that the work will begin immediately, and the persons employed will be used in cleaning the area and providing recreation facilities.

Modzelewski helped say no.

That was Malik's nominee.

By 1948 Modzelewski had progressed far enough in the Polish Communist government to be the foreign minister and a member of the Polish Politburo made up of Wladyslaw Gomulka, Jakob Berman, Roman Zambrowski, Hilary Minc, Boleslaw Bierut, Stanislaw Radkierwicz and a few others too hard to typewrite.

That is Malik's nominee.

To a pleasanter topic, it was nice to read that the Boy Scouts of America, Region 3, presented their silver antelope award to Fred Waring for distinguished service to boyhood.

A lot of us who listen to the radio or watch TV take Waring and his remarkable group of artists too much for granted. Former Boy Scout Fred's been around 30 years—as long a run as there has been in show business—and he's better today than he ever was, which is something.

There's never been an off-color remark or a suggestive song on his show. Just the best popular music one can hear today, and just about the finest entertainment on television.

Waring can do more things well and successfully than anybody I know. In addition to his work on the air he has a music business, a college for glee clubs, operates a super golf course and resort at Shawnee, Pa., and is the course's best player.

Everybody in New York (wellllll, nearly everybody) seems to be wearing a gabardine topcoat these days. They have thus become interchangeable in saloons and other public places. If you don't get your own back, what's the dif? You get one just like it. The only difference in gabardine topcoats these days is what's in the pockets . . . And I'm sorry to report that I recently blew one with four Kleenexes for one with only two.

Picked up one at '21' the other night and when I didn't recognize the Kleenex brought it back and demanded the one I had checked. Turned out that the one I had checked was somebody else's.

Funds Are Allocated For Rec Area Near Lonaconing

William H. Johnson, district forester for Western Maryland, said over the weekend the Board of Public Works for the State of Maryland has allocated funds for the development of a recreation area located near Lonaconing. This recreation area comprises the ground recently donated to the State by the George's Creek Coal Company and Alvin C. Green of Lonaconing.

Plans for the development of this recreation area were recently announced by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., and have been approved by the Department of Forestry and Parks. This recreation area is the first such area established in Allegany County. It is expected that similar areas in other parts of the county will be provided later.

The development of this project will create employment for approximately 25 persons in the Lonaconing area and Rev. C. H. Goshorn, Rev. Charles W. Bogan and Rev. Amos Stone, all of Lonaconing, have served as an advisory committee in securing those who will be employed. Preference has been given to members of heads of families in Lonaconing and vicinity whose needs are greatest and who have been unable to secure other employment.

Johnson states that the work will begin immediately, and the persons employed will be used in cleaning the area and providing recreation facilities.

Navy Recruits Learn There Is More To Being A Sailor Than Learning To Tie Knots

By ED CREAGH

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP) — Their faces were black with soot and the sweat poured off in rivulets, but the chief kept urging the boys forward, forward until it seemed the billowing flames would sear their eyebrows.

"That's it!" he shouted. "Lower the nozzle. This way. Hotter than the hinges, see? Now back up with the nozzle. Better? You put an umbrella of spray between you and the fire. You don't get burned. You put the fire out."

It was fire fighting drill for recruits at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center. And before it was over, every bluejacket knew that there's more to being a sailor these days than squaring your hat and learning to tie knots.

On the other hand:

That same day, not a half-mile away, 10 WAVES in bathing suits had the time of their lives splashing around in a swimming pool.

Said one of them, 21-year-old Mary Burnside of Ft. Shafter, Honolulu, daughter of an Army colonel: "This is wonderful! I don't see how anybody could dislike the Navy!"

There you have it — the good life and the strenuous life as Great Lakes prepares more and more men and women for a Navy that may be needing all the personnel it can get.

Great Lakes is a good place to see what goes on in a training camp during this period of partial mobilization. On the shore of Lake Michigan in the heart of the United States, it trained more than 1,000,000 in World War II. Now the recruits are pouring in by the thousand once again.

Although all WAVES get their basic training here, you don't see many of them. They're kept pretty much to themselves. You hear them singing, though. They sing as they march, as they eat, as they bathe.

What do they sing? Here's a sample:

"The jackets that they give us
"They say are mighty fine.
"But I need Lana Turner
"To fill the front of mine."

Welcome as the WAVES are, it's the male recruits who fill most of Great Lakes' 1,500 acres. Mostly they're youngsters of 17 or 18. Some come into the Navy from the Sea Scouts. Quite a number make no bones about having joined up before the draft took them.

"We give all recruits the same fundamental training regardless of their future assignments," says Capt. Kelvin L. Nutting, head of the recruit training command. "From here they will go on to service schools or, in most cases, direct to the fleet.

"Here we help a boy adjust to living in a group . . . teach him the fundamentals of Navy life — and of democracy . . . instill in him a pride in himself and in his service . . . help him develop a desire for self-improvement."

Recruits live in groups, all right — work, eat, sleep and play in companies of about 60. Cleanliness is drilled into them — that and fire prevention are vital on shipboard. And their barracks are regarded as ships. You don't scrub the floor — you swab the deck.

One week of training is a "service week."

With paint brush in hand and a wall half-painted, Recruit Richard Van Der Sluys, Gloversville, N. Y., told what that meant:

"Swab the deck, clean quarters, mow lawns, make beds—oh, I guess it's not too bad."

Most recruits seem to like drilling on the various parade grounds, especially with the cadenced marching counts they make up as they go along. These are chants like:

"Raise your heads and open your eyes.
"Company 12 is passing by.
"Sound off: One, two . . ."

Competition among the various companies is keen. For one thing, every company wants to win the flags awarded for excellence in sports and classroom activity. For another, the winners get extra leave — and two good leave towns, Chicago and Milwaukee, are not far away.

Sports and other recreation facilities are available at the training center, of course. Parents and friends can visit the recruits on Saturdays and Sundays if they write well ahead for a pass. About 5,000 visitors appear on some Sundays.

One recent visitor, Edward L. Shultz, Jr., Endicott, N. Y., was much impressed by the modernistic reception center in which he visited his sailor son, James.

"I never dreamed they had anything like this," he said. "It certainly was nice that I could see the boy. I know he likes it here now, so I feel more at ease."

It's no snap, training for the Navy. But there are compensations — a uniform tailored to fit you is one of them. And to many a young man, the Navy becomes a sort of substitute for a father. It maintains discipline, all right, but it isn't harsh without reason.

They tell a story about the center commander, Capt. J. S. Keating, encountering a just-off-the-train recruit who hadn't the first idea of naval courtesy. The "boot" stared at the captain. The captain stared back at the recruit.

Finally it was the captain who spoke:

"Now, son — which one of us do you think is going to salute first?"

Railroad Line Being Dismantled

The Rowlesburg (W. Va.) Southern Railway, which ran between Rowlesburg and Erwin, W. Va., is now being dismantled and the tracks are being shipped out on the B. and O. Railroad for use as scrap metal.

For almost 50 years the small line hauled timber from the area it traversed, but the operation of lumber camps declined in recent years and the line was abandoned last year.

Have we got what it takes?

Nobody doubts our determination to win victory in the field. We certainly won't deny our fighting men a single thing they need.

But now is the time to tighten our belts—to show the world we have what it takes to stop the enemy's Sixth Column, inflation, from sapping the life-blood of our economy at home!

This calls for courage to say "NO" to certain things . . .

- Say NO to government expenditures that are unnecessary at this time. We can't afford all the non-military projects we might like . . . and also provide the national defense we must have.
- Say NO to government borrowing that can be avoided by paying cold cash from current income. Tough as a pay-as-we-go plan might be, it's cheaper in the long run than weakening our buying power by unnecessary borrowing.
- Say NO to hoarding. Unnecessary buying creates artificial shortages, sends prices up.
- Say NO to unnecessary spending. Saving is more important today than ever. Our savings help to keep extra money from competing for goods, and therefore help to keep inflation from getting out of hand.

Let's make it clear to the enemy that we have got what it takes to stop the enemy's Sixth Column inflation.

Have we got what it takes?

Nobody doubts our determination to win victory in the field. We certainly won't deny our fighting men a single thing they need.

But now is the time to tighten our belts—to show the world we have what it takes to stop the enemy's Sixth Column, inflation, from sapping the life-blood of our economy at home!

This calls for courage to say "NO" to certain things...

- Say NO to government expenditures that are unnecessary at this time. We can't afford all the non-military projects we might like . . . and also provide the national defense we must have.
- Say NO to government borrowing that can be avoided by paying cold cash from current income. Tough as a pay-as-we-go plan might be, it's cheaper in the long run than weakening our buying power by unnecessary borrowing.
- Say NO to hoarding. Unnecessary buying creates artificial shortages, sends prices up.
- Say NO to unnecessary spending. Saving is more important today than ever. Our savings help to keep extra money from competing for goods, and therefore help to keep inflation from getting out of hand.

Let's make it clear to the enemy that we have got what it takes to stop the enemy's Sixth Column inflation.

New Party Line

French officials have been noting, with a mixture of relief and suspicion, that sabotage and communist violence have almost stopped during the last few weeks. The French communists, largest political party in France, are no longer using violence in the effort to halt American arms shipments and French arms production.

A year ago Moscow ordered its French stooges to get tough. There was a purge of allegedly lukewarm communists by the French party. There was great ballyhoo expressing French determination to halt arms shipments and production. Now those orders have been reversed. Moscow has not had a change of heart, but has ordered a change of tactics.

The old tactics failed. They did not halt French rearmament. By their blatant anti-patriotic attitude, they alienated the sympathies of the French people. Especially since the tide of battle changed in Korea, communist prestige has been slipping.

The communists will now try less direct methods. They will agitate for higher wages, a cause many French non-communists will support. They will appeal to French thrift, which was outraged by their destruction of property, by denouncing rearmament as a waste of French money.

They will appeal to the pride of Frenchmen, and to their war-weariness, by denouncing the government's "warmongering American masters" and its "policy for war." Moscow now thinks they can do more damage that way.

Maybe so, but it is a good sign, nevertheless. It means that the Kremlin and its followers are discovering that their policy of arrogant force is working badly. They will now try to make friends, influence people and support popular causes.

Thirty-one federal agencies, or three per cent of the total, have been ordered to cut spending. It will be interesting to check on this next year to see how it came out.

No Place To Hide

Anyone who has read in news dispatches of the Air Force "bombing by radar through the overcast" in Korea has probably been wondering why the Russians couldn't do the same in this country. The answer is that the Russians could, and probably would if given the chance.

The point came up during a conference of mayors the other day in Washington. The question of "blackouts" had been raised, and a Defense Department spokesman pointed out that complete dousing of all lights, such as was enforced along the coastline during the last war, doesn't have a place in defense planning.

The reason is that visual sight of a target is no longer necessary when electronic scanning "eyes" are doing the looking.

Some of the tricks used during the last war might still be useful, however. The Germans built elaborate replicas of some of their vital industrial areas at varying distances from the target cities. Early in the war British and American bombers were led astray by the decoy cities and plastered open fields and woodlands with their lethal loads.

Civil defense officials feel that deceptive patterns of lighting might be used just in case an enemy's radar gear isn't too accurate. But blackouts can no longer be considered an effective defense.

News like this is likely to leave the civilian with the feeling that there is no place to hide. To a certain extent that is so. But it must be remembered that the signal success of the Air Force in strategic bombing in Korea was against an enemy whose defenses were most primitive. Despite this, it behooves the nation to get its civilian defenses in the best order as quickly as possible.

Prophets formerly predicted when the world would end. No one is attempting this today, although conditions seem to be propitious.

Jericho Explored

Go to Jericho! Thi sold adjuration now acquires a new force with the discovery of great concrete buildings there dating from about the birth of Christ. The walls are four feet thick, for protection against the summer sun, and the architecture resembles that of the wealthy parts of ancient Rome. Nothing like it has been found in the excavated cities of Palestine, even in Jerusalem. Some of the smaller items from these buildings will eventually be on view in this country, as it is intended to study them at leisure at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh.

The discoveries show Jericho as it was when Herod made it his winter capital. This was two miles away from the older city captured by Joshua. Ancient towns were less bound down to one site than those of today, with their elaborate water, sewer and utility connections underground which it is too costly to move.

Joshua's capture and destruction of Jericho took place in the 14th Century B.C. It must have been a very old city then, for traces of settlement have been found dating as far back as B.C. 4500. As it is situated in a volcanic country, the "plague of darkness" and the "pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night" are explained by scientists as phenomena which would naturally accompany a volcanic eruption.

The city of Herod continued to be prominent for three more centuries, then lost its importance gradually. For many years it has been an insignificant Arab village.

So much is going on in Washington the public has lost track of Gen. Deepfreeze Vaughan.

The Body's Use Of Iron

IRON is as essential to the body as it is to steel manufacturers. But despite its importance, our tissues contain only a trace. Scientists have cauculated that the total is approximately one eighth of an ounce and three-quarters of this amount can be found in the read corpuscles of the blood.

We are told to eat spinach and liver because they are said to be rich in this mineral, but absorption is another question. The ferrous form of iron is easy to absorb only one-fifth as readily. The average diet contains the ferric type. It is here that the acid in the stomach comes to the rescue because it plays a role in the chemical reaction which changes this form into the absorbable type. The importance of gastric acid cannot be overestimated; anemic persons who lack the substance respond porly to iron therapy. They are helped considerably, however, when acid is combined with iron medication. To determine the percentage of acid in the stomach, a tube is passed into the organ and the contents thus withdrawn are analyzed.

The body never can be accused of greediness insofar as iron is concerned. If too much is consumed, the excess is wasted. The cells of the intestine take what they want, and then, through a mechanism that is not too well understood close their doors to any more. When this occurs the remainder is eliminated in the stools. But the mechanism is flexible — when anemia exists, more iron is absorbed before the cells set up their blockade. This phenomenon is true of the metabolism of other chemicals used by the body, even vitamins; those who take more than needed are enriching the sewage system and nothing else.

When iron is required by a patient, the physician recommends tablets or capsules in contrast to liver extract, which is administered hypodermically. Some individuals cannot tolerate too much iron because stomach cramps and diarrhea follow excessive use. This can be obviated by changing the brand or reducing the dosage. The mineral is toxic when injected; a large dose administered into a vein is likely to produce nausea, flushing of the skin, and headache.

Experiments have been done with iron that was made radioactive with the cyclotron or atom-smashing machine. This is known as trace-iron because its where abouts can be traced throughout the entire system with a Geiger counter after the material is injected. When inserted into a vein, 50 per cent disappears from the blood stream within five minutes; the remainder settles in the red corpuscles as coloring matter (hemoglobin). The liver is the storehouse from which the tissues obtain a supply when needed. Any excess that might accumulate is excreted through the kidneys and recent work has shown that a large amount may pass out with the sweat in the cast-off cells.

There are many causes of anemia. Infection, for example, has a tendency to lower the iron level in the blood and in time, anemit ensues. Something happens to the red cells so that they refuse to absorb iron. As a result, anemia cannot be treated merely by administering the element; for a good response, the infection must be eradicated.

A renal condition in which the tubules of the kidneys are affected primarily. The urine contains so much albumin that there is danger of depletion of the body's protein supply. This in turn leads to a dropsical condition, which is one of the most distressng features of the disease. ACTH and cortisone are working well in nephrosis.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Unsafe Lifeboat Gear On Seven Troopships Invite Tragedy; President's Aversion To Whistle-Stop Tour; Labor Rankled by Truman Appointments.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Just as the ill-fated hospital ship Benevolence sank recently without lowering a lifeboat, the same thing could happen to seven troopships which are still equipped with cumbersome lifeboat gear, almost useless in an emergency.

These troopships are plying the Atlantic and Pacific today, crammed with G. I.'s going to Korea and Germany, or with dependents coming home. In case of an emergency, they may not be as fortunate as the Benevolence passengers who went down within easy range of San Francisco rescue boats.

These seven troopships carry their lifeboats cradled in Navy triple-bank davits which don't even meet the minimum safety standards of the Coast Guard. It takes ship's power to swing the davits out with any degree of speed. Yet ship's power usually fails in any emergency serious enough to require lifeboats. Though substitute hand-cranks are attached to the davits, the mechanism is too slow and cumbersome to swing the lifeboats in position within the 10-minute Coast Guard time limit.

The troopships still using triple-bank davits are the Generals W. M. Black, Le Roy Eltinge, W. G. Hann, Stuart Heintzelman, W. C. Langlitt, M. B. Stewart and S. D. Sturgis. All were inherited from the Army but are now operated by the Unified Military Sea Transport Service. As military vessels, these ships do not come under Coast Guard jurisdiction. However, the ships' officers have complained repeatedly about the unsafe lifeboat gear. So far, their warnings have gone ignored.

Navy Explains

A mate who sailed on the SS. General Sturgis told this column: "Emergencies likely to be encountered on ships at sea, such as fires, strandings, founderings and collisions, would not only make lifeboats necessary but, on this ship, would make them almost useless."

A Navy spokesman explained that the Military Sea Transport Service has been so hard-pressed for troopships, since the Korean war began, that there hasn't been time to improve the ships inherited from the Army. The same spokesman denied, however, that a power failure had prevented the Benevolence's lifeboats from being lowered. He insisted the hospital ship was not equipped with triple-bank davits which require ship's power, but with simple gravity davits.

Yet Capt. Barton Bacon, Jr., commander of the Benevolence, told a Coast Guard inquiry that lack of power had made it impossible to get lifeboats over the side. The frantic crew was able to cut loose only one lifeboat, which immediately capsized.

With illegal, Russian-made mines floating loose in Far Eastern waters, the Navy may be faced with a needless tragedy unless it installs modern, safe lifeboat equipment in these seven unsafe troopships.

Whistle-Stop Truman??

Before the President decided to visit General MacArthur, Democratic politicians had been begging him on bended knees to make a fist-swinging, whistle-stop tour during the last 10 days of the campaign. Mr. Truman, however, has remained lukewarm.

The inside reason for his coolness is not the official explanation at the White House — that the President is pressed with urgent problems. It is his own fear that he cannot repeat his 1948 victory in an off year.

Presidential secretaries Matt Connelly and John Steelman threw the most cold water on the speech tour, because: "If the boss goes out and does his best and we still lose seats in Congress, he won't be the champ any more. That would hurt in 1952."

Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle and Acting Campaign Director, Sen. Clinton Anderson, on the other hand recommend that Mr. Truman take the last 10 days before the election to stir up excitement and get voters to the polls. Their reason: confidential and alarming reports that reveal the Democrats will lose key seats unless they get out a big vote.

The surveys show the Democrats must get 55 to 75 per cent of the registered voters at the polls in order to carry such strategic states as New York, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and California. A smaller vote would lop off Democrat incumbents, and a big turnout would increase the administration strength in Congress.

In most areas, Democrat scouts report apathy among the voters. Headline charges of communism, responsibility for Korea, and appeasement of Russia have not stirred up any excitement in the grass roots. One correspondent wrote, "I wish the Republican war cry of 'Communism, Korea and Confusion' was clicking better, so the Democrats would get out and work."

NOTE — The Truman-MacArthur meeting was considered a compromise between the two groups of Presidential advisers. The trip keeps the President in the war news, and also reminds the voters that he had something to do with the big decision of Korea.

Truman Rewards GOP

A quiet move is under way by the AFL, CIO, and Railway Brotherhoods to beard Mr. Truman in the White House and bluntly ask him why labor has been ignored in favor of Republican big business executives in making recent mobilization appointments.

One labor official complained to Dan Dawson, President Truman's personnel man, "There is only one labor man in all the new defense setup — Eli Oliver on Symington's Resources Board."

William Green and Phil Murray have also griped to sympathetic congressmen. The appointments that particularly rankle them are:

William Henry Harrison, former executive of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., as director of the New National Production Authority.

Alan Valentine, ex-president of the University of Rochester and corporation director, as economic stabilization director. Valentine was executive director of the Democrats for Willkie in 1950.

Capital Chaff

The United Nations Commission has reported that the South Koreans were just as guilty of war atrocities as the North Koreans — until the U. S. Army found out and put its foot down . . . Republic of Korea President Syngman Rhee is so busy making political capital out of the U. N. military victory that he is a nuisance to the Army, is embarrassing the State Department . . . The new ambassador to England, Walter S. Gifford, to whom President Truman gave the juiciest plum in the diplomatic service, contributed to the 1944 and 1948 presidential campaigns — but not to Truman. He was a heavy backer of Tom Dewey.

Tito In Danger

WASHINGTON

WITHOUT HELP on a large scale very soon, mass starvation in Yugoslavia will set in by next February. The Tito regime is then entirely likely to succumb to the Kremlin's ferocious pressure. This is the real meaning of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's recent statement that some way must soon be found to get food to Yugoslavia.

This crisis in Yugoslavia, which is as dangerous as the crisis in Greece in early 1947 which gave birth to the Truman Doctrine, derives partly from sheer misfortune. In recent months Yugoslavia has been cursed with the worst drought in recorded history. As the crops have withered in the fields, the peasants, in desperation, have begun to slaughter their cattle—the sure prelude to catastrophe.

The crisis also derives, of course, from the airtight blockade imposed by the Kremlin. Most of Yugoslavia's traditional trading area is in Eastern Europe. Ever since Tito's declaration of independence, the Kremlin's blockade has been slowly sapping the Yugoslav economy, while Tito has searched largely in vain for the needed economic lifeblood in the West.

Military Pressures

To these economic pressures have been added political and above all military pressures. The Soviet satellites in Eastern Europe have been heavily supplied with armaments by the Kremlin, while Tito's arms stocks have been depleted. Now the satellites are believed, both in Washington and Belgrade, to be capable at least of overrunning the Belgrade plains. Although Tito could and would continue the fight almost indefinitely in the mountains, this slow shift in the power balance has immensely augmented the pressures on the Tito regime. A real economic collapse accompanied by widespread hunger would now increase these pressures to the breaking point. This is also believed both in Washington and Belgrade

Tito himself suggested one meaning to the West of the collapse of his regime, in a recent conversation with an American. "Mr. Churchill says that it would take sixty divisions to defend Europe if the Russians attacked," said Tito. "You might point out to Mr. Truman and Mr. Acheson that I have thirty-two divisions. Moreover, if we are attacked, my divisions will fight."

The defection of Tito has been, indeed, purely in terms of military power, a greater blow to the Kremlin than the loss of the Kremlin's Korean satellite. Despite inadequate armament, Tito's army is still the largest non-Cominform ground force in Western Europe. Nor is this all.

The even greater political meaning of Tito's defection is underlined by evidence that the Cominform apparatus is secretly supporting not only the anti-Tito Communist underground, but also the underground royalist movement. In other words, any government, even a royalist government, is better than Tito's in the eyes of the Kremlin. For Tito splits the world Communist movement, the chief instrument of Soviet foreign policy, and punctures the legend of the Kremlin's invincibility.

Difficult To Deal With

Surely it is obvious by now that the survival of Tito's regime is in the vital American interest. Indeed, it has been obvious for a long time, and also obvious that a planned program to insure Tito's survival, and to deal with just the sort of crisis which has now arisen, was essential. But because no such program has been evolved, it will be enormously difficult to deal with the crisis.

For this is not something that can await long and acrimonious Congressional debate. What is needed is food, now, in the next few weeks, to keep the Yugoslav people fed and the situation in hand. Neither the International Bank nor the regular lending agencies of the government can provide this food. Yet legalistic hesitations must be disregarded, and some way found, through the Commodity Credit Corporation, the E.C.A., or other means, to bridge the immediate crisis.

The mere survival of Tito's regime, however, is not enough. It is in the vital American interest not only that Tito should survive, but that he should succeed, at least by comparison with the Soviet satellite states, and that he should be strong. An independent Communist regime, hostile to the Kremlin, working with the West, which was strong, and which gave its people a higher standard of living than the Soviet satellites, could have a shattering affect on the whole structure of Soviet power, in Asia as well as in Europe.

This too has been obvious for a long time. But the ancient myth that the American people are incapable of understanding their real national interests has prevented any really determined and effective action. If the present crisis is somehow successfully overcome, it will be time to stop treating the American people like children, and time to promote the vital American interest in Yugoslavia openly and vigorously.

Taxpayers Must Learn Where Money Is Going

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 15—It is amazing that so many millions of people in this "land of the free" have so little idea or concern as to what is done with their hard-earned cash after paying it to the government in taxes. The American people have acquired a reputation for having made democracy work as neither it nor any other system of government has thus far worked in the history of the world. Yet, few of our citizens really know much about how the government spends or what benefits the people actually receive from this vast sum of money.

We all should know where our tax dollars are going and whether they are being wisely spent. Our children should know more about money matters, especially as they concern Congressmen as they make appeals for re-election. If more Congressmen had a better understanding of the value of a dollar and a better appreciation of true social welfare, it would not be so easy for bureaucratic parasites to waste our money.

The Tax Load

In view of the coming elections, I will confine myself here to federal taxes and expenses, though much of what I mention might just as well be applied to state and local government taxes and expenses. Federal taxes have been increasing since the early part of the present century. Naturally, the national growth created the need for expanding our government expenditures; but unfortunately, as government grew bigger, individual and corporate incentive and initiative have been steadily undermined. This has been the fault of our Congressmen.

A review of our federal tax structure would reveal an astonishing number of taxes, still in effect, which were enacted as "temporary" measures, throughout the past fifty years. The most recent examples are the obnoxious excise taxes placed on the statute books early in World War II. Our Congressmen have added to the tax burden slowly so as to attract a minimum of unfavorable attention. Now they try to sell us the idea that all these increases were necessary steps in the process of our coming of age as a nation. This is not true.

Now the bureaucrats are asking for more billions of dollars and are already framing laws which will make it possible for Uncle Sam to help himself to a much larger share of your income and mine. In these days of inflated values, it costs a great deal to carry on a military campaign even in an area as limited as Korea. Let us not, however, be so carried away by the tension of the times that we surrender any more of our hard won liberties and rights to the bureaucrats. Let us make our Congressmen responsible to us in fact as they are in theory.

Indifference was chiefly responsible for our getting into the jam in which we now find ourselves as far as taxes are concerned. We were too ready to agree to the imposition of additional tax burdens in years past because we were high-pressured or cajoled into thinking there was no other course open to us. Businessmen, who knew better, contented themselves with merely denouncing our tax policies, and their protests were largely ignored. I hope we will all be more realistic about taxes in the future and that we will make our voices heard and our wills felt in the coming elections. If we fail to do this, we shall certainly lose more than our dollars in the critical times ahead.

No Money For Unnecessaries

I do not approve of handing over much of the country's cash to support certain groups of classes of the people at the expense of all the people. That is undemocratic. It is also financially dangerous, especially when we need all our money for productive things. I am not against moderate farm supports for basic farm products, but I am opposed to the indiscriminate use of tax dollars which tends to make dairy or potato farmers a favored class.

A foolhardy farm support program might not break the country financially, in the years ahead, but eventually it could lead to the enslavement of the farmers themselves. New and higher taxes we shall probably have. They need not be much higher if each of us will take the time to impress upon those who are now up for election the acute need for drastic cuts in nonessential federal spending.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Babs Hutton In The News

FOR 30 odd years, I have been trying to learn what is newsworthy. Once Professor Zechariah Chafee said that he could not find a newspaper that gave him the news he wanted. Flippantly, I suggested that he publish a newspaper of his own, which he and the half dozen who have his tastes would read. The great variety of newspapers in this country ought to give any man something for his particular taste, even if he has to go far afield to get it.

During the past weeks, I have been puzzled by the amount of expensive white paper that has been consumed by the affairs of one Barbara Hutton and her fourth husband, Prince Troubetzkoy, a trivial Lithuanian whom she accuses of marrying her for her grandfather's money, which she inherited, while he says that she is fixing to take a fifth spouse. This she denies, disclaiming further engagements with what she calls love.

I have never seen this woman, but her pictures do not indicate that she is as interesting as the Korean war, the high cost of living, the compulsory drafting of young doctors into the armed forces or the silly correspondence, involving the President and John L. Lewis, about dog-catchers.

This woman is a granddaughter of F. W. Woolworth, who founded the five and ten cent store business. He left her a fortune. There is no record of her having used any part of it for the benefit of the human race, although friends of hers have told me that she does engage in private benefactions.

Although the Woolworth fortune was earned in the United States and Barbara Hutton was born an American, she avoids living in the United States, preferring the great open spaces of Europe and North Africa. That, of course, is her business. Yet, I cannot help noting that no foundation bearing her name serves the American people. No hospital, no university applauds her aid, particularly when they need so much private help. Nor is there a public record of her having done anything constructive about such institutions in this country.

Looking through files, one finds that her name and picture have often appeared in the newspapers, but generally in relation to a scandal. She has been wedded to a Georgian, a Dane and a Lithuanian —each bearing a title. In between, she was married to Cary Grant.

"Prince" among Georgians and Lithuanians is not much of a title, actually going to landowners, not unlike the British word "squire." However, some American women will take on any title except the ordinary and honorable one of Mrs.

I am told by abler newspapermen than I am that this woman is newsworthy because of her exceptional wealth and her marital peculiarities. They say that the public is interested in such people on the theory that if a dog bites a man, it is normal (which is not true), but that if a man bites a dog, it is sensational. On the basis of that assumption, only the grotesque would be news, which also is not true.

Is it not perhaps more correct to say that the abnormal interest in such meanderings of Miss Hutton—or shall we call her Princess Troubetzkoy?—is stimulated by the constant reference to her? For instance, of what significance is this unseemly dialouge between husband and wife who call press conferences to denounce each other? How often have I listened to such talk among persons who are only lesser because they did not inherit money! Why would any reporter want to attend such a press conference? What has this Troubetzkoy character ever done to deserve a press conference?

By George, if we are so short of things to interest us in these days of war and an election campaign, let me tell you that a fine dog I knew, named Susie, a lovely beagle and as friendly as a healthy baby, was run over by a monster of a truck and had to be put away to the tears of children who loved her.

Surely, such news is as important as that one Barbara Hutton is ready to take a fifth nusband and that one Troubetzkoy objects and wants the services of his wife. Services, indeed!

Anyone who has read in news dispatches of the Air Force "bombing by radar through the overcast" in Korea has probably been wondering why the Russians couldn't do the same in this country. The answer is that the Russians could, and probably would if given the chance.

The point came up during a conference of mayors the other day in Washington. The question of "blackouts" had been raised, and a Defense Department spokesman pointed out that complete dousing of all lights, such as was enforced along the coastline during the last war, doesn't have a place in defense planning.

The reason is that visual sight of a target is no longer necessary when electronic scanning "eyes" are doing the looking.

Some of the tricks used during the last war might still be useful, however. The Germans built elaborate replicas of some of their vital industrial areas at varying distances from the target cities. Early in the war British and American bombers were led astray by the decoy cities and plastered open fields and woodlands with their lethal loads.

Civil defense officials feel that deceptive patterns of lighting might be used just in case an enemy's radar gear isn't too accurate. But blackouts can no longer be considered an effective defense.

News like this is likely to leave the civilian with the feeling that there is no place to hide. To a certain extent that is so. But it must be remembered that the signal success of the Air Force in strategic bombing in Korea was against an enemy whose defenses were most primitive. Despite this, it behooves the nation to get its civilian defenses in the best order as quickly as possible.

Prophets formerly predicted when the world would end. No one is attempting this today, although conditions seem to be propitious.

Jericho Explored

Go to Jericho! Thi sold adjuration now acquires a new force with the discovery of great concrete buildings there dating from about the birth of Christ. The walls are four feet thick, for protection against the summer sun, and the architecture resembles that of the wealthy parts of ancient Rome. Nothing like it has been found in the excavated cities of Palestine, even in Jerusalem. Some of the smaller items from these buildings will eventually be on view in this country, as it is intended to study them at leisure at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh.

The discoveries show Jericho as it was when Herod made it his winter capital. This was two miles away from the older city captured by Joshua. Ancient towns were less bound down to one site than those of today, with their elaborate water, sewer and utility connections underground which it is too costly to move.

Joshua's capture and destruction of Jericho took place in the 14th Century B.C. It must have been a very old city then, for traces of settlement have been found dating as far back as B.C. 4500. As it is situated in a volcanic country, the "plague of darkness" and the "pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night" are explained by scientists as phenomena which would naturally accompany a volcanic eruption.

The city of Herod continued to be prominent for three more centuries, then lost its importance gradually. For many years it has been an insignificant Arab village.

So much is going on in Washington the public has lost track of Gen. Deepfreeze Vaughan.

The Body's Use Of Iron

IRON is as essential to the body as it is to steel manufacturers. But despite its importance, our tissues contain only a trace. Scientists have cauculated that the total is approximately one eighth of an ounce and three-quarters of this amount can be found in the read corpuscles of the blood.

We are told to eat spinach and liver because they are said to be rich in this mineral, but absorption is another question. The ferrous form of iron is easy to absorb only one-fifth as readily. The average diet contains the ferric type. It is here that the acid in the stomach comes to the rescue because it plays a role in the chemical reaction which changes this form into the absorbable type. The importance of gastric acid cannot be overestimated; anemic persons who lack the substance respond porly to iron therapy. They are helped considerably, however, when acid is combined with iron medication. To determine the percentage of acid in the stomach, a tube is passed into the organ and the contents thus withdrawn are analyzed.

The body never can be accused of greediness insofar as iron is concerned. If too much is consumed, the excess is wasted. The cells of the intestine take what they want, and then, through a mechanism that is not too well understood close their doors to any more. When this occurs the remainder is eliminated in the stools. But the mechanism is flexible — when anemia exists, more iron is absorbed before the cells set up their blockade. This phenomenon is true of the metabolism of other chemicals used by the body, even vitamins; those who take more than needed are enriching the sewage system and nothing else.

When iron is required by a patient, the physician recommends tablets or capsules in contrast to liver extract, which is administered hypodermically. Some individuals cannot tolerate too much iron because stomach cramps and diarrhea follow excessive use. This can be obviated by changing the brand or reducing the dosage. The mineral is toxic when injected; a large dose administered into a vein is likely to produce nausea, flushing of the skin, and headache.

Experiments have been done with iron that was made radioactive with the cyclotron or atom-smashing machine. This is known as trace-iron because its where abouts can be traced throughout the entire system with a Geiger counter after the material is injected. When inserted into a vein, 50 per cent disappears from the blood stream within five minutes; the remainder settles in the red corpuscles as coloring matter (hemoglobin). The liver is the storehouse from which the tissues obtain a supply when needed. Any excess that might accumulate is excreted through the kidneys and recent work has shown that a large amount may pass out with the sweat in the cast-off cells.

There are many causes of anemia. Infection, for example, has a tendency to lower the iron level in the blood and in time, anemit ensues. Something happens to the red cells so that they refuse to absorb iron. As a result, anemia cannot be treated merely by administering the element; for a good response, the infection must be eradicated.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

V. T. writes. What is nephrosis?

REPLY

A renal condition in which the tubules of the kidneys are affected primarily. The urine contains so much albumin that there is danger of depletion of the body's protein supply. This in turn leads to a dropsical condition, which is one of the most distressng features of the disease. ACTH and cortisone are working well in nephrosis.

Unsafe Lifeboat Gear On Seven Troopships Invite Tragedy; President's Aversion To Whistle-Stop Tour; Labor Rankled by Truman Appointments.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Just as the ill-fated hospital ship Benevolence sank recently without lowering a lifeboat, the same thing could happen to seven troopships which are still equipped with cumbersome lifeboat gear, almost useless in an emergency.

These troopships are plying the Atlantic and Pacific today, crammed with G. I.'s going to Korea and Germany, or with dependents coming home. In case of an emergency, they may not be as fortunate as the Benevolence passengers who went down within easy range of San Francisco rescue boats.

These seven troopships carry their lifeboats cradled in Navy triple-bank davits which don't even meet the minimum safety standards of the Coast Guard. It takes ship's power to swing the davits out with any degree of speed. Yet ship's power usually fails in any emergency serious enough to require lifeboats. Though substitute hand-cranks are attached to the davits, the mechanism is too slow and cumbersome to swing the lifeboats in position within the 10-minute Coast Guard time limit.

The troopships still using triple-bank davits are the Generals W. M. Black, Le Roy Eltinge, W. G. Hann, Stuart Heintzelman, W. C. Langlitt, M. B. Stewart and S. D. Sturgis. All were inherited from the Army but are now operated by the Unified Military Sea Transport Service. As military vessels, these ships do not come under Coast Guard jurisdiction. However, the ships' officers have complained repeatedly about the unsafe lifeboat gear. So far, their warnings have gone ignored.

Navy Explains

A mate who sailed on the SS. General Sturgis told this column: "Emergencies likely to be encountered on ships at sea, such as fires, strandings, founderings and collisions, would not only make lifeboats necessary but, on this ship, would make them almost useless."

A Navy spokesman explained that the Military Sea Transport Service has been so hard-pressed for troopships, since the Korean war began, that there hasn't been time to improve the ships inherited from the Army. The same spokesman denied, however, that a power failure had prevented the Benevolence's lifeboats from being lowered. He insisted the hospital ship was not equipped with triple-bank davits which require ship's power, but with simple gravity davits.

Yet Capt. Barton Bacon, Jr., commander of the Benevolence, told a Coast Guard inquiry that lack of power had made it impossible to get lifeboats over the side. The frantic crew was able to cut loose only one lifeboat, which immediately capsized.

With illegal, Russian-made mines floating loose in Far Eastern waters, the Navy may be faced with a needless tragedy unless it installs modern, safe lifeboat equipment in these seven unsafe troopships.

Whistle-Stop Truman??

Before the President decided to visit General MacArthur, Democratic politicians had been begging him on bended knees to make a fist-swinging, whistle-stop tour during the last 10 days of the campaign. Mr. Truman, however, has remained lukewarm.

The inside reason for his coolness is not the official explanation at the White House — that the President is pressed with urgent problems. It is his own fear that he cannot repeat his 1948 victory in an off year.

Presidential secretaries Matt Connelly and John Steelman threw the most cold water on the speech tour, because: "If the boss goes out and does his best and we still lose seats in Congress, he won't be the champ any more. That would hurt in 1952."

Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle and Acting Campaign Director, Sen. Clinton Anderson, on the other hand recommend that Mr. Truman take the last 10 days before the election to stir up excitement and get voters to the polls. Their reason: confidential and alarming reports that reveal the Democrats will lose key seats unless they get out a big vote.

The surveys show the Democrats must get 55 to 75 per cent of the registered voters at the polls in order to carry such strategic states as New York, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and California. A smaller vote would lop off Democrat incumbents, and a big turnout would increase the administration strength in Congress.

In most areas, Democrat scouts report apathy among the voters. Headline charges of communism, responsibility for Korea, and appeasement of Russia have not stirred up any excitement in the grass roots. One correspondent wrote, "I wish the Republican war cry of 'Communism, Korea and Confusion' was clicking better, so the Democrats would get out and work."

NOTE — The Truman-MacArthur meeting was considered a compromise between the two groups of Presidential advisers. The trip keeps the President in the war news, and also reminds the voters that he had something to do with the big decision of Korea.

Truman Rewards GOP

A quiet move is under way by the AFL, CIO, and Railway Brotherhoods to beard Mr. Truman in the White House and bluntly ask him why labor has been ignored in favor of Republican big business executives in making recent mobilization appointments.

One labor official complained to Dan Dawson, President Truman's personnel man, "There is only one labor man in all the new defense setup — Eli Oliver on Symington's Resources Board."

William Green and Phil Murray have also griped to sympathetic congressmen. The appointments that particularly rankle them are:

William Henry Harrison, former executive of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., as director of the New National Production Authority.

Alan Valentine, ex-president of the University of Rochester and corporation director, as economic stabilization director. Valentine was executive director of the Democrats for Willkie in 1950.

Capital Chaff

The United Nations Commission has reported that the South Koreans were just as guilty of war atrocities as the North Koreans — until the U. S. Army found out and put its foot down . . . Republic of Korea President Syngman Rhee is so busy making political capital out of the U. N. military victory that he is a nuisance to the Army, is embarrassing the State Department . . . The new ambassador to England, Walter S. Gifford, to whom President Truman gave the juiciest plum in the diplomatic service, contributed to the 1944 and 1948 presidential campaigns — but not to Truman. He was a heavy backer of Tom Dewey.

Tito In Danger

WASHINGTON

WITHOUT HELP on a large scale very soon, mass starvation in Yugoslavia will set in by next February. The Tito regime is then entirely likely to succumb to the Kremlin's ferocious pressure. This is the real meaning of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's recent statement that some way must soon be found to get food to Yugoslavia.

This crisis in Yugoslavia, which is as dangerous as the crisis in Greece in early 1947 which gave birth to the Truman Doctrine, derives partly from sheer misfortune. In recent months Yugoslavia has been cursed with the worst drought in recorded history. As the crops have withered in the fields, the peasants, in desperation, have begun to slaughter their cattle—the sure prelude to catastrophe.

The crisis also derives, of course, from the airtight blockade imposed by the Kremlin. Most of Yugoslavia's traditional trading area is in Eastern Europe. Ever since Tito's declaration of independence, the Kremlin's blockade has been slowly sapping the Yugoslav economy, while Tito has searched largely in vain for the needed economic lifeblood in the West.

Military Pressures

To these economic pressures have been added political and above all military pressures. The Soviet satellites in Eastern Europe have been heavily supplied with armaments by the Kremlin, while Tito's arms stocks have been depleted. Now the satellites are believed, both in Washington and Belgrade, to be capable at least of overrunning the Belgrade plains. Although Tito could and would continue the fight almost indefinitely in the mountains, this slow shift in the power balance has immensely augmented the pressures on the Tito regime. A real economic collapse accompanied by widespread hunger would now increase these pressures to the breaking point. This is also believed both in Washington and Belgrade

Tito himself suggested one meaning to the West of the collapse of his regime, in a recent conversation with an American. "Mr. Churchill says that it would take sixty divisions to defend Europe if the Russians attacked," said Tito. "You might point out to Mr. Truman and Mr. Acheson that I have thirty-two divisions. Moreover, if we are attacked, my divisions will fight."

The defection of Tito has been, indeed, purely in terms of military power, a greater blow to the Kremlin than the loss of the Kremlin's Korean satellite. Despite inadequate armament, Tito's army is still the largest non-Cominform ground force in Western Europe. Nor is this all.

The even greater political meaning of Tito's defection is underlined by evidence that the Cominform apparatus is secretly supporting not only the anti-Tito Communist underground, but also the underground royalist movement. In other words, any government, even a royalist government, is better than Tito's in the eyes of the Kremlin. For Tito splits the world Communist movement, the chief instrument of Soviet foreign policy, and punctures the legend of the Kremlin's invincibility.

Difficult To Deal With

Surely it is obvious by now that the survival of Tito's regime is in the vital American interest. Indeed, it has been obvious for a long time, and also obvious that a planned program to insure Tito's survival, and to deal with just the sort of crisis which has now arisen, was essential. But because no such program has been evolved, it will be enormously difficult to deal with the crisis.

For this is not something that can await long and acrimonious Congressional debate. What is needed is food, now, in the next few weeks, to keep the Yugoslav people fed and the situation in hand. Neither the International Bank nor the regular lending agencies of the government can provide this food. Yet legalistic hesitations must be disregarded, and some way found, through the Commodity Credit Corporation, the E.C.A., or other means, to bridge the immediate crisis.

The mere survival of Tito's regime, however, is not enough. It is in the vital American interest not only that Tito should survive, but that he should succeed, at least by comparison with the Soviet satellite states, and that he should be strong. An independent Communist regime, hostile to the Kremlin, working with the West, which was strong, and which gave its people a higher standard of living than the Soviet satellites, could have a shattering affect on the whole structure of Soviet power, in Asia as well as in Europe.

This too has been obvious for a long time. But the ancient myth that the American people are incapable of understanding their real national interests has prevented any really determined and effective action. If the present crisis is somehow successfully overcome, it will be time to stop treating the American people like children, and time to promote the vital American interest in Yugoslavia openly and vigorously.

Taxpayers Must Learn Where Money Is Going

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 15—It is amazing that so many millions of people in this "land of the free" have so little idea or concern as to what is done with their hard-earned cash after paying it to the government in taxes. The American people have acquired a reputation for having made democracy work as neither it nor any other system of government has thus far worked in the history of the world. Yet, few of our citizens really know much about how the government spends or what benefits the people actually receive from this vast sum of money.

We all should know where our tax dollars are going and whether they are being wisely spent. Our children should know more about money matters, especially as they concern Congressmen as they make appeals for re-election. If more Congressmen had a better understanding of the value of a dollar and a better appreciation of true social welfare, it would not be so easy for bureaucratic parasites to waste our money.

The Tax Load

In view of the coming elections, I will confine myself here to federal taxes and expenses, though much of what I mention might just as well be applied to state and local government taxes and expenses. Federal taxes have been increasing since the early part of the present century. Naturally, the national growth created the need for expanding our government expenditures; but unfortunately, as government grew bigger, individual and corporate incentive and initiative have been steadily undermined. This has been the fault of our Congressmen.

A review of our federal tax structure would reveal an astonishing number of taxes, still in effect, which were enacted as "temporary" measures, throughout the past fifty years. The most recent examples are the obnoxious excise taxes placed on the statute books early in World War II. Our Congressmen have added to the tax burden slowly so as to attract a minimum of unfavorable attention. Now they try to sell us the idea that all these increases were necessary steps in the process of our coming of age as a nation. This is not true.

Now the bureaucrats are asking for more billions of dollars and are already framing laws which will make it possible for Uncle Sam to help himself to a much larger share of your income and mine. In these days of inflated values, it costs a great deal to carry on a military campaign even in an area as limited as Korea. Let us not, however, be so carried away by the tension of the times that we surrender any more of our hard won liberties and rights to the bureaucrats. Let us make our Congressmen responsible to us in fact as they are in theory.

Indifference was chiefly responsible for our getting into the jam in which we now find ourselves as far as taxes are concerned. We were too ready to agree to the imposition of additional tax burdens in years past because we were high-pressured or cajoled into thinking there was no other course open to us. Businessmen, who knew better, contented themselves with merely denouncing our tax policies, and their protests were largely ignored. I hope we will all be more realistic about taxes in the future and that we will make our voices heard and our wills felt in the coming elections. If we fail to do this, we shall certainly lose more than our dollars in the critical times ahead.

No Money For Unnecessaries

I do not approve of handing over much of the country's cash to support certain groups of classes of the people at the expense of all the people. That is undemocratic. It is also financially dangerous, especially when we need all our money for productive things. I am not against moderate farm supports for basic farm products, but I am opposed to the indiscriminate use of tax dollars which tends to make dairy or potato farmers a favored class.

A foolhardy farm support program might not break the country financially, in the years ahead, but eventually it could lead to the enslavement of the farmers themselves. New and higher taxes we shall probably have. They need not be much higher if each of us will take the time to impress upon those who are now up for election the acute need for drastic cuts in nonessential federal spending.

These Days

Babs Hutton In The News

FOR 30 odd years, I have been trying to learn what is newsworthy. Once Professor Zechariah Chafee said that he could not find a newspaper that gave him the news he wanted. Flippantly, I suggested that he publish a newspaper of his own, which he and the half dozen who have his tastes would read. The great variety of newspapers in this country ought to give any man something for his particular taste, even if he has to go far afield to get it.

During the past weeks, I have been puzzled by the amount of expensive white paper that has been consumed by the affairs of one Barbara Hutton and her fourth husband, Prince Troubetzkoy, a trivial Lithuanian whom she accuses of marrying her for her grandfather's money, which she inherited, while he says that she is fixing to take a fifth spouse. This she denies, disclaiming further engagements with what she calls love.

I have never seen this woman, but her pictures do not indicate that she is as interesting as the Korean war, the high cost of living, the compulsory drafting of young doctors into the armed forces or the silly correspondence, involving the President and John L. Lewis, about dog-catchers.

This woman is a granddaughter of F. W. Woolworth, who founded the five and ten cent store business. He left her a fortune. There is no record of her having used any part of it for the benefit of the human race, although friends of hers have told me that she does engage in private benefactions.

Although the Woolworth fortune was earned in the United States and Barbara Hutton was born an American, she avoids living in the United States, preferring the great open spaces of Europe and North Africa. That, of course, is her business. Yet, I cannot help noting that no foundation bearing her name serves the American people. No hospital, no university applauds her aid, particularly when they need so much private help. Nor is there a public record of her having done anything constructive about such institutions in this country.

Looking through files, one finds that her name and picture have often appeared in the newspapers, but generally in relation to a scandal. She has been wedded to a Georgian, a Dane and a Lithuanian—each bearing a title. In between, she was married to Cary Grant.

"Prince" among Georgians and Lithuanians is not much of a title, actually going to landowners, not unlike the British word "squire." However, some American women will take on any title except the ordinary and honorable one of Mrs.

I am told by abler newspapermen than I am that this woman is newsworthy because of her exceptional wealth and her marital peculiarities. They say that the public is interested in such people on the theory that if a dog bites a man, it is normal (which is not true), but that if a man bites a dog, it is sensational. On the basis of that assumption, only the grotesque would be news, which also is not true.

Is it not perhaps more correct to say that the abnormal interest in such meanderings of Miss Hutton—or shall we call her Princess Troubetzkoy?—is stimulated by the constant reference to her? For instance, of what significance is this unseemly dialouge between husband and wife who call press conferences to denounce each other? How often have I listened to such talk among persons who are only lesser because they did not inherit money! Why would any reporter want to attend such a press conference? What has this Troubetzkoy character ever done to deserve a press conference?

By George, if we are so short of things to interest us in these days of war and an election campaign, let me tell you that a fine dog I knew, named Susie, a lovely beagle and as friendly as a healthy baby, was run over by a monster of a truck and had to be put away to the tears of children who loved her.

Surely, such news is as important as that one Barbara Hutton is ready to take a fifth husband and that one Troubetzkoy objects and wants the services of his wife. Services, indeed!

The Music Goes 'Round And 'Round

A couple of years ago one of the staff musicians at NBC—a trombonist I'm going to call Charlie Michaels—decided he was finally in a position to realize his two big ambitions: one, to marry the swing harpist he had been keeping company with, and two, to buy a house and a piece of land in New Jersey.

Billy Rose

For the first year everything was peaches and grade-A for the Times Square tots—there was a garden to putter around in, a house to do over, and neighbors to get acquainted with. Charlie got quite a kick out of telling the suburbanites what an artist his wife had been, and showing them a studio picture of her seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

But last January, when TV started using a lot of live music, their marriage ran into its first snag. Charlie, who had been doing an afternoon stint on radio, was shifted to one of the TV motor car programs, an a few weeks later was assigned to two other video spots. These involved a certain amount of late rehearsals, which meant that several night a week, instead of catching the 5:15, the trombone player didn't arrive home until after midnight—that is, when he managed to get home at all.

His city-bred spouse, of course, didn't take kindly to this new routine—the country without a fella around the house wasn't much fun—and when it became clear that Charlie was going to be spending more and more of his evenings at the studio, she suggested selling the house and moving back to town.

"I'd hate to give this place up," said the trombonist. "I get a big kick out of it, even if it's only week ends. As for an apartment, they're pretty tough to find right now but I'll see what I can do."

For the next couple of weeks Charlie answered ads and talked to real estate agents but without any luck—either the rent was more than he could afford to pay, or it involved plunking down a couple of thousand dollars for a few sticks of furniture.

When he told his wife what the situation was, she said, "I know it isn't easy but you've got to do something. I just can't take it out here any more."

One evening not long ago, while grabbing a sandwich during a rehearsal break, Charlie picked up a paper and an item caught his attention: A young woman had committed suicide by throwing herself out of the window of a midtown apartment house.

On the spur of mood and moment, the musician hopped a taxi and went around to the address mentioned. "I understand you've got a vacancy," he said to the superintendent, "and it's worth a couple of hundred to me if I can have first crack at it."

The super took him up in the elevator and showed him the apartment—four cheerfully-furnished rooms.

"It's hard to believe anyone with such a lay-out would jump out the window," Charlie small-joked. "Did the woman live here alone?"

"Just between us," said the superintendent, "I think some guy was paying the bills. He leased the place in her name about two months ago and at first used to show up pretty regularly. Lately he hasn't been around, and I guess that explains why she took the dive."

"Was she as good looking as the papers said?"

"She was quite a looker," said the super. "There's a picture of her on the bureau."

Charlie went over and examined it.

It was a photograph of a girl seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

So you ask us—how about money? What does it cost to buy a Buick—and to own one?
All right—let us ask you some questions.
Take first cost. Do you know that Buick prices start down at a level below what you'd pay for some sixes—and that every Buick, on a cents-per-pound basis, is a standout buy?
Take operating cost. Do you know that the bang you'll get from Buick's Fireball power comes from a valve-in-head engine—recognized by engineers as a thrifty saver of fuel?
Do you know that owners of 1950 Buicks are writing us rave letters, saying that this year's version is the most economical Buick ever built?
Do you know that such comfort features as coil springs on all four wheels protect the car as well as the passengers—and throw in an extra saving because they need no servicing, and are practically breakproof to boot?
Do you know that Dynaflow*—in addition to keeping you fresh as a daisy on a day-long drive—caps its convenience with savings on tires, cuts down the strain on transmissions and engines—and eliminates all friction clutch repairs, because it hasn't any?
Take final cost. Do you know that when the owner of a Buick gets a yen for a later model, the prices that Buicks command on a used-car lot are the ultimate proof of their long-run value?
So if you want a real run for your money, better buy Buick. And the first step is very simple: Go see your Buick dealer—soon—and get an order signed.
*Dynaflow Drive is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

The Music Goes 'Round And 'Round

A couple of years ago one of the staff musicians at NBC—a trombonist I'm going to call Charlie Michaels—decided he was finally in a position to realize his two big ambitions: one, to marry the swing harpist he had been keeping company with, and two, to buy a house and a piece of land in New Jersey.

Billy Rose

For the first year everything was peaches and grade-A for the Times Square tots—there was a garden to putter around in, a house to do over, and neighbors to get acquainted with. Charlie got quite a kick out of telling the suburbanites what an artist his wife had been, and showing them a studio picture of her seated at a harp with a big Spanish comb in her hair.

But last January, when TV started using a lot of live music, their marriage ran into its first snag Charlie, who had been doing an afternoon stint on radio, was shifted to one of the TV motor car programs, an a few weeks later was assigned to two other video spots These involved a certain amount of late rehearsals, which meant that several night a week, instead of catching the 5:15, the trombone player didn't arrive home until after midnight—that is, when he managed to get home at all.

His city-bred spouse, of course, didn't take kindly to this new routine—the country without a fella around the house wasn't much fun—and when it became clear that Charlie was going to be spending more and more of his evenings at the studio, she suggested selling the house and moving back to town.

"I'd hate to give this place up," said the trombonist. "I get a big kick out of it, even if it's only week ends. As for an apartment, they're pretty tough to find right now but I'll see what I can do."

For the next couple of weeks Charlie answered ads and talked to real estate agents but without any luck—either the rent was more than he could afford to pay, or it involved plunking down a couple of thousand dollars for a few sticks of furniture.

When he told his wife what the situation was, she said, "I know it isn't easy but you've got to do something. I just can't take it out here any more."

One evening not long ago, while grabbing a sandwich during a rehearsal break, Charlie picked up a paper and an item caught his attention: A young woman had committed suicide by throwing herself out of the window of a midtown apartment house.

On the spur of mood and moment, the musician hopped a taxi and went around to the address mentioned. "I understand you've got a vacancy," he said to the superintendent, "and it's worth a couple of hundred to me if I can have first crack at it."

The super took him up in the elevator and showed him the apartment—four cheerfully-furnished rooms.

"It's hard to believe anyone with such a lay-out would jump out the window," Charlie small-joked. "Did the woman live here alone?"

"Just between us," said the superintendent, "I think some guy was paying the bills. He leased the place in her name about two months ago and at first used to show up pretty regularly. Lately he hasn't been around, and I guess that explains why she took the dive."

"Was she as good looking as the papers said?"

"She was quite a looker," said the super. "There's a picture of her on the bureau."

Charlie went over and examined it.

Father Of Injured Gridder Is Sought

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 15 (AP) — Police in Virginia and Maryland were asked today to find the father of a 17-year-old athlete who suffered a fractured neck in a football game.

Ben (Sonny) Morrell, captain and star halfback of the Camden Catholic High School football team, was described in critical condition in our Lady of Lourdes Hospital. His neck was broken in the third quarter of a game with Bridgeton High School yesterday after he had scored two touchdowns to lead his team to a 25-7 victory.

An appeal to locate the boy's father, Benjamin L. Morrell, was sent out by police teletype today after three surgeons visited the boy and decided against an immediate operation.

Members of the family said Morrell left his Pennsauken Township home several days ago on a business trip to the two southern states.

Keyser Defeats Westvaco, 8-7, Ties Up Series

Playoff Winds Up With Co-Champions

Keyser and Westvaco will share the championship of the Bi-State Baseball League for the 1950 season it was announced last night by President Blaine McKenzie after Keyser knotted up the series at 3-all yesterday by winning 8-7 and the teams were unable to get together on arrangements for the 7th and deciding contest.

Carl Wilfong of Fairmont pitched Keyser to victory in the 6th game of the series. It was his third straight triumph of the series, he having won the third game, 2-1, and the 4th tilt, 8-3. Woody Woodson went the route for the Papermakers and suffered his second loss of the series. He was returned the winner in the first, second and fifth contests.

With the score deadlocked at 5-5 in the top of the 8th, Westvaco took a two-run lead when Harold Robertson and "Bud" Mosser walloped successive homers over the centerfield barrier. Keyser, however, came back with a three-run rally to put the game on ice in the 8th.

Ocie Raines singled and after Bill See fanned, Barney Barnhouse and Wilfong walked to fill the bases. Earl Hess's long fly to Muir in centerfield enabled Raines to score. Then runners on first and second advanced when Woodson uncorked a wild pitch. Bob Hess' 4th single of the game sent over the run that tied the score at 7-7. A timely double by Dick Rotruck scored Wilfong with the winning marker.

Bob Hess sparked Keyser with four hits, Dick Rotruck rapped two doubles and a single and batted in four runs and Raines hit safely twice. Robertson paced Westvaco with a homer and two one-base knocks, Warnick larruped a double and Shockey got a triple.

Westvaco executed three double plays.

Wilfong fanned six and issued five passes while Woodson struck out three and walked four. Score:

WESTVACO	230 000 020—7	8	2
KEYSER	202 100 03x—8	13	1

In the other match, the third place Bears swept three from the Eagles. Alex Davis, sophomore sensation, topped the victors with a 148 game and 379 set. Raymond Brown had 157-334 for the Eagles. Standings:

Oakland Beats Accident, 17-2

Amvets Grab First Contest In Series

Belting the offerings of two pitchers for 16 hits and taking advantage of the home team's nine fielding miscues, Oakland's Amvets defeated Accident by the decisive score of 17-2 yesterday in the opening game of the final playoff series in the Mountain Top Baseball League.

Perfect baseball weather brought out approximately 1,000 spectators for the opener of the best-of-three games series.

The Accident Band played and the American Legion color guard participated in flag raising exercises before the game got under way.

Ted James was the "big gun" for Oakland, which won the pennant at the close of the regular schedule, with four singles in seven trips to the platter. Bob Glaze, veteran right hander and ace of the Amvets, let Accident down with six safeties, fired the third strike past ten and helped himself to three singles.

Ted Topper, Accident mound star, was derricked in the second frame in favor of Johnny Bennett during a 7-run outburst. Melvin Smith obtained two of Accident's six blows and Bennett contributed a two-base wallop.

The second game of the series is scheduled for Oakland next Sunday. Score:

OAKLAND	070 031 015—17	16	3
ACCIDENT	001 000 010— 2	6	9

Graziano, Fusari, Robinson To Fight

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP) — Ray Robinson, welterweight champion, and Rocky Graziano, the former middleweight champion, head a list of fistic luminaries who will see action this week in several matches around the country.

Others set to go include Charlie Fusari, Tony Pellone, and Roland La Starza.

Graziano, tuning up for a possible title match, takes on Pete Mead, the comebacking Grand Rapids puncher in a ten at Milwaukee Monday night. Rocky stopped Gene Burton in seven rounds in his last start in Chicago Oct. 4. Mead, a game battler, is having his first fight in over a year.

Fusari, a welterweight contender from Irvington, N. J., will be seeking to even matters with Pellone when he faces the New Yorker in the feature ten at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. Pellone beat blond Charlie in New York in June 1947. The bout will be broadcast and telecast by C. B. S.

The Friday night radio (ABC) and television (NBC) fight will be piped from New York's St. Nicholas Arena where La Starza, New York heavyweight contender, tackles Duilio Spagnolo of Italy in the ten round headliner. The 23-year-old La Starza is starting a new campaign to earn a shot at heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles.

Pittsburgh Knocks Giants From Unbeaten Ranks, 17-6

Joe Geri Sparks Steelers To Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (INS)—The Pittsburgh Steelers knocked the New York Giants from the ranks of the unbeaten today with a 17 to 6 shellacking in a National Football League game at the Polo Grounds.

The Steelers handed the Giants their first loss of the campaign before 21,725 home debut fans and dropped New York out of first place in the American Division in the process.

Pittsburgh's line raised havoc with Giant passing stars Charley Conerly and Travis Tidwell, virtually rushing them off their feet.

Joe Geri was the offensive star for the Steelers, passing for one touchdown, kicking a field goal and booting both extra points. Geri gained 159 yards, completing eight of 17 passes and consumed 85 yards on 29 rushes.

Conerly only managed to complete five of 14 pass attempts for 59 yards.

Waterfield Is Hero

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (INS) — Bob Waterfield booted a game-winning field goal late in the fourth period today to give the Los Angeles Rams a 30 to 28 victory over the Detroit Lions before 32,589 fans.

The game was marked by bitter controversy between officials and players and Ed Chapagne was tossed off the field in the last quarter when he vehemently protested a pushing penalty on a pass play.

Paul Barry scored first for the Rams in the opening period when Los Angeles recovered Doak Walker's fumble on the Lions' seven. Waterfield's conversion attempt failed.

In the second period Detroit's Bobby Layne climaxed a 50-yard drive with a touchdown pass to Bob Hoernschemeyer. Walker converted and the Lions led, 7-6, at the half.

Another touchdown pass, this time from Layne to Clyde Box, put the Lions ahead 14-6 in the third quarter.

The Rams quickly put across two more markers when Glenn Davis caught Norm Van Bocklin's pass for a TD and Dick Hoener went over from the six.

In the final period Van Bocklin passed to V. T. Smith for another Ram touchdown. Detroit regained the lead on a series of passes by Layne and a one-yard buck across the goal line by Walker.

Lujack Stars As Bears Win

51,065 See Packers Suffer 28-14 Loss

CHICAGO, Oct. 15 (INS)—Johnny Lujack scored three touchdowns and kicked four extra points to pace the Chicago Bears to a 28 to 14 victory over the Green Bay Packers today before 51,065 fans.

The former Notre Dame quarterback's 22 points gave him a total of 55 for five contests and the circuit's individual scoring leadership.

Lujack's first TD was a 25-yard run in the second quarter and his conversion tied the score at 7-7 at the half. Halfback Billy Grimes put the Packers into the lead with a 73-yard first period run Grimes somersaulted when tackled on his own 36, but up and continued his dash.

Harper Davis scored on a 36-yard reverse and the Bears went ahead early in the third quarter. Lujack climaxed a 61-yard drive with a one-yard quarterback sneak midway in the same period. He tallied again in the final quarter on an 8-yard trip around right end.

Floyd "Breezy" Reid slashed through left tackle for Green Bay's second touchdown in the waning minutes of the game. The Packers drove deep into Chicago territory again but time ran out.

The crowd was the largest ever to witness a Chicago Bear game in Wrigley Field. The previous record of 50,601 was set in a game with the Chicago Cardinals in 1948.

Brown's Late Rally Sinks Cards, 34-24

Rack Up 24 Points In Last 29 Minutes

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 15 (INS)—Cleveland's Browns scored 24 points in the last 29 minutes of play today to overcome a 14-point lead and defeat the scrappy Chicago Cardinals, 34 to 24, before 33,774 fans.

The Browns seemed destined to lose when the Cardinals, who have won only one of their first three games this season, chalked up a 24-10 lead early in the third quarter.

But Cleveland snapped back with seven points in the waning minutes of the period on a 29-yard pass from Otto Graham to Dante Lavelli and then piled up 17 points in the final quarter while holding the Cardinals scoreless.

Francis Polsfoot scored the first Cardinal TD by taking a short pass from Jim Hardy in the end zone. Chicago added three more points when Pat Harder booted a 47-yard field goal.

Graham made the score 10-7 by going around end for seven, climaxing a series of passes. Lou Groza tied the score with a 22-yard field goal early in the second period.

Harder put the Cardinals in the lead again in the third period by going over from the two following a running attack. He also booted all the extra points for Chicago. Bob Shaw increased the Cards' lead to 24-10 by scoring on a Hardy pass.

Cleveland rolled late in the third period on Graham's TD pass to Lavelli and repeated the performance in the final quarter. Motely went over from the two and Groza added three more points on a 19-yard field goal.

Eagles Top Colts

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15 (INS) — The Philadelphia Eagles downed the Baltimore Colts 24 to 14 today but not before 14,413 football fans experienced visions of a startling upset.

The stubborn Colts, rated by pregame dopsters as a four-touchdown underdog, had the defending National Football League champions deadlocked at 14-14 after three quarters.

However, the Eagles scored a third touchdown in the fourth quarter when halfback Toy Ledbetter plunged over from the one-yard line, climaxing a sustained drive.

Cliff Patton, who kicked all the Eagles' extra points added a field goal from the 17-yard line later in the same period.

The Eagles scored a touchdown in the first period when Pete Pihos grabbed a short pass from Thompson and ran 18 yards. The Birdmen added their second tally in the second quarter.

The Colts scored in the first period on a 30-yard pass by Quarterback Adrian Burke and a 20-yard run by Halfback Billy Stone. Stone took a 30-yard pass from Y. A. Tittle in the second quarter and galloped 40 yards for the other Colt score.

Laurel To Bar "Cheap Horses"

13-Day Meeting Starts Tomorrow

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15 (AP) — "Cheap horses," one of the guesses why betting dropped alarmingly at Bowie, will be barred from racing at Laurel's 13-day meeting starting Tuesday.

Entries of horses "that have started for less than $1,500 since July 15" — will not be accepted unless they have won at least one race of such caliber.

It's estimated this will eliminate about 200 of the low class thoroughbreds which cluttered up Bowie's program. Betting at the Bowie meeting which ended Saturday averaged only $542,610.

It was Bowie's first experience with early fall racing. Last spring the track averaged $825,732.

It will be Laurel's second meeting of the year. The track operated for 12 days in the spring, instead of Bowie, and averaged $728,548.

Four stakes will be run at this session, starting with the $7,500 Maryland Futurity on opening day. Next in order are the $15,000 Washington Handicap on Oct. 21, the $25,000 Selima on Oct 28 and the $7,500 Chevy Chase Steeplechase on Nov. 1.

The latter will be the first and only jumping race in Maryland this year.

"Pop" Keeler, Veteran Golf Writer, Dies

ATLANTA, Oct. 15 (AP) — O. B. "Pop" Keeler, dean of the nation's golf writers and the equal of any character he ever wrote of, died early today. He was 68.

Keeler spent more than 41 years in harness as a reporter, most of it in sports and a good portion of that covering the career of grand slam golfer Bobby Jones. Every time Jones appeared in a major tournament, Keeler was there.

Since last summer, Keeler's health has declined rapidly. A liver ailment kept him in the hospital most of the time. He died at 2:40 a.m. today after being taken to the hospital again Saturday following a severe attack.

Jones received the news of Keeler's death at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., shortly after he arrived at the Greenbrier Hotel with a party of promonent Atlantans.

"He was my dearest friend," Jones said simply, apparently too filled with emotion to say more.

Spa Bar's undefeated pinmen extended their winning streak to 12 games when they took three in a row from the Roxy Seniors in the American Division of the Men's City Bowling League yesterday.

Savoy won three from Bowling Green and Yellow Top Cab blanked the Eagles, 3-0.

Other high scores included: Tommy Morrison, Spa Bar, 192-516; Charles Fisher, Kelso's, 175-466; Curt Twigg, Savoy, 228-530; Hollis, Bowling Green, 190-479; Bill Smith, Eagles, 160-436; O. McGreevy, Yellow Top, 203-514.

Waterfield Is Hero

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (INS) — Bob Waterfield booted a game-winning field goal late in the fourth period today to give the Los Angeles Rams a 30 to 28 victory over the Detroit Lions before 32,589 fans.

The game was marked by bitter controversy between officials and players and Ed Chapagne was tossed off the field in the last quarter when he vehemently protested a pushing penalty on a pass play.

Paul Barry scored first for the Rams in the opening period when Los Angeles recovered Doak Walker's fumble on the Lions' seven. Waterfield's conversion attempt failed.

In the second period Detroit's Bobby Layne climaxed a 50-yard drive with a touchdown pass to Bob Hoernschemeyer. Walker converted and the Lions led, 7-6, at the half.

Lujack's first TD was a 25-yard run in the second quarter and his conversion tied the score at 7-7 at the half. Halfback Billy Grimes put the Packers into the lead with a 73-yard first period run Grimes somersaulted when tackled on his own 36, but up and continued his dash.

Rack Up 24 Points In Last 29 Minutes

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 15 (INS)—Cleveland's Browns scored 24 points in the last 29 minutes of play today to overcome a 14-point lead and defeat the scrappy Chicago Cardinals, 34 to 24, before 33,774 fans.

The Browns seemed destined to lose when the Cardinals, who have won only one of their first three games this season, chalked up a 24-10 lead early in the third quarter.

But Cleveland snapped back with seven points in the waning minutes of the period on a 29-yard pass from Otto Graham to Dante Lavelli and then piled up 17 points in the final quarter while holding the Cardinals scoreless.

Francis Polsfoot scored the first Cardinal TD by taking a short pass from Jim Hardy in the end zone. Chicago added three more points when Pat Harder booted a 47-yard field goal.

Graham made the score 10-7 by going around end for seven, climaxing a series of passes. Lou Groza tied the score with a 22-yard field goal early in the second period.

Harder put the Cardinals in the lead again in the third period by going over from the two following a running attack. He also booted all the extra points for Chicago. Bob Shaw increased the Cards' lead to 24-10 by scoring on a Hardy pass.

Cleveland rolled late in the third period on Graham's TD pass to Lavelli and repeated the performance in the final quarter. Motely went over from the two and Groza added three more points on a 19-yard field goal.

Laurel To Bar "Cheap Horses"

13-Day Meeting Starts Tomorrow

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15 (AP) — "Cheap horses," one of the guesses why betting dropped alarmingly at Bowie, will be barred from racing at Laurel's 13-day meeting starting Tuesday.

Entries of horses "that have started for less than $1,500 since July 15" — will not be accepted unless they have won at least one race of such caliber.

It's estimated this will eliminate about 200 of the low class thoroughbreds which cluttered up Bowie's program. Betting at the Bowie meeting which ended Saturday averaged only $542,610.

It was Bowie's first experience with early fall racing. Last spring the track averaged $825,732.

It will be Laurel's second meeting of the year. The track operated for 12 days in the spring, instead of Bowie, and averaged $728,548.

Four stakes will be run at this session, starting with the $7,500 Maryland Futurity on opening day. Next in order are the $15,000 Washington Handicap on Oct. 21, the $25,000 Selima on Oct 28 and the $7,500 Chevy Chase Steeplechase on Nov. 1.

The latter will be the first and only jumping race in Maryland this year.

"Pop" Keeler, Veteran Golf Writer, Dies

ATLANTA, Oct. 15 (AP) — O. B. "Pop" Keeler, dean of the nation's golf writers and the equal of any character he ever wrote of, died early today. He was 68.

Keeler spent more than 41 years in harness as a reporter, most of it in sports and a good portion of that covering the career of grand slam golfer Bobby Jones. Every time Jones appeared in a major tournament, Keeler was there.

Since last summer, Keeler's health has declined rapidly. A liver ailment kept him in the hospital most of the time. He died at 2:40 a.m. today after being taken to the hospital again Saturday following a severe attack.

Jones received the news of Keeler's death at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., shortly after he arrived at the Greenbrier Hotel with a party of promonent Atlantans.

"He was my dearest friend," Jones said simply, apparently too filled with emotion to say more.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15. (INS)—Betty Hutton has finally found a place large enough for her exuberant spirits—a three-ring circus arena. She'll play Holly, the blonde enchantress, who does some fancy trapeze performing for Cecil B. DeMille in "The Greatest Show on Earth." She was the first star signed.

Betty Hutton

I thought C. B., a showman from way back, already had signed bouncing Betty after she sent that anonymous floral piece of giant proportions together with the request that she be given a role in his circus epic, although all hands at Paramount deny it was a pre-arranged plan. The flowers cost $1000.

Betty leaves in January for Sarasota, Florida, where the circus makes its winter quarters. That means she'll make "The Greatest Show on Earth" before she does the life of Blossom Seeley.

My neighbor, Irving Asher, writes from Paris that he has found the little boy for the Bing Crosby-Jane Wyman picture, "Here Comes The Groom." Two children, a boy and girl, have important roles in the story. Says Irving:

"I was about to give up on my search when I saw a French movie with Jacky Gencel, a 10-year-old French youngster who has made many pictures here."

The snapshot he enclosed of Jacky is appealing. Although the boy does not speak a word of English, Irving thinks the five days on the boat will give him a good start on his lessons.

• — • — •

I'm happy to hear that all is well matrimonially with Cornel Wilde and Patricia Knight while they are busy abroad making pictures.

Cornel is in England where he is preparing his own production of "Lord Johnny." Pat has been in Vienna, playing the Eva Braun role in the Morton Briskin production of "Heil" in which Luther Adler is seen as Hitler. They have had several reunions, however, when Cornel was able to fly the Channel to visit briefly with Pat.

Briskin, by the way, is excited about his new "find"—the black-haired Viennese beauty, Ilka Windisch, who plays a small role in the picture—and has signed her for another movie about a G.I. deserter which he plans to make in Paris next spring.

• — • — •

Elizabeth Taylor meant what she said when she told me she wants to make lots of pictures because Nicky Hilton is so busy during the day with his father's hotel business.

She admitted she would like to play the role of the girl in "Strictly Dishonorable" opposite Ezio Pinza. She'd be available, too, because she finishes "Father's Little Dividend" before the Pinza picture starts.

June Allyson was to have appeared with Pinza, but she's busy having her own little dividend. Personally, I think Liz, who has outgrown some of the childish roles, would be charming.

The crackpots, who make Hollywood the target for so many false accusations, will get the other side of the picture in an article Rosalind Russell is preparing called "It's About Time."

Roz wrote it for Flair magazine for publication at Christmas. She has been spending a lot of time going extensively into statistics and getting actual data from the Motion Picture Council.

Last year she made a great speech at UCLA which she called "The Heart of Hollywood," and presented ably Hollywood's side against all those people who blame our town for everything that happens.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Ginger Rogers is the business that took Greg Bautzer to New York. His arrival proved a bitter blow to all the men who were devoted to Ginger.

Judy Garland met Carlton Alsop at a New York theater and refused to speak to him. That bears out the gossip that they did not part on friendly terms.

It's reported that Conrad Hilton has paid five million dollars for the El Mirador Hotel in Palm Springs. This was used during the war as a military hospital. Conrad will convert it into one of the swankiest hotels in his chain and will open a plush night club.

Madame Schiaparelli gave a small cocktail party for her friends just before she said goodbye to Hollywood. One of her guests brought her a tiny doll on a chain for her to wear. It is supposed to be a replica of Scap, herself.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

© 1950 by John F. Dille Co.

To detect the major clues to secrets of your personal charm, follow this column every day this week.

WHEN big business gets charm conscious, it's important news to every woman, no matter what kind of life she leads. Recently, one of my town's large companies, whose women's personnel deals directly with the public as sales representatives and receptionists, asked me to set up a yard stick by which applicants could be measured and graded on charm — the kind of charm that wins friends and influences people in and out of business. More and more, the top brass of big business is realizing that charm, just like brains, education and health, has a definite commercial value.

Six Clues to Charm

It's just as difficult to work out a charm test as an I. Q. test. Try to analyze your own most charming or delightful friend and you'll see why. You'll quickly discover that her charm is derived from a smooth composite of quite a number of attractive qualities.

Some of these are tangible — something that you can definitely appraise.

To illustrate, here are six qualities which business men agree are most important in rating any woman's charm:

1. Does her figure show that she understands self-discipline . . . in that she eats and exercises for beauty?

2. Is her bearing self-assured — erect — graceful?

3. Does her appearance attest to her sense of fitness? How tastefully does she dress to enhance her best points and befit the occasion?

All Denote Care

4. The face that charms never proclaims that it cares not what others think. How expertly are cosmetics applied to make the most of natural good looks?

5. A woman's charm is in exact ratio to the meticulous carrying out of a well-organized grooming schedule. Any omission is a clue to her personal degree of charm.

6. Do her actions and speech show awareness and consideration of the world around her? They largely determine her womanly appeal and the impression she will make.

How well do you rate on the above six clues to charm? You can depend on them to determine how nice you are to have around in both business and social life! Note that not one is a "mysterious something" that any woman is just lucky to possess. All are evidence of the woman's desire to make the most of herself!

TOMORROW: How to appeal to men.

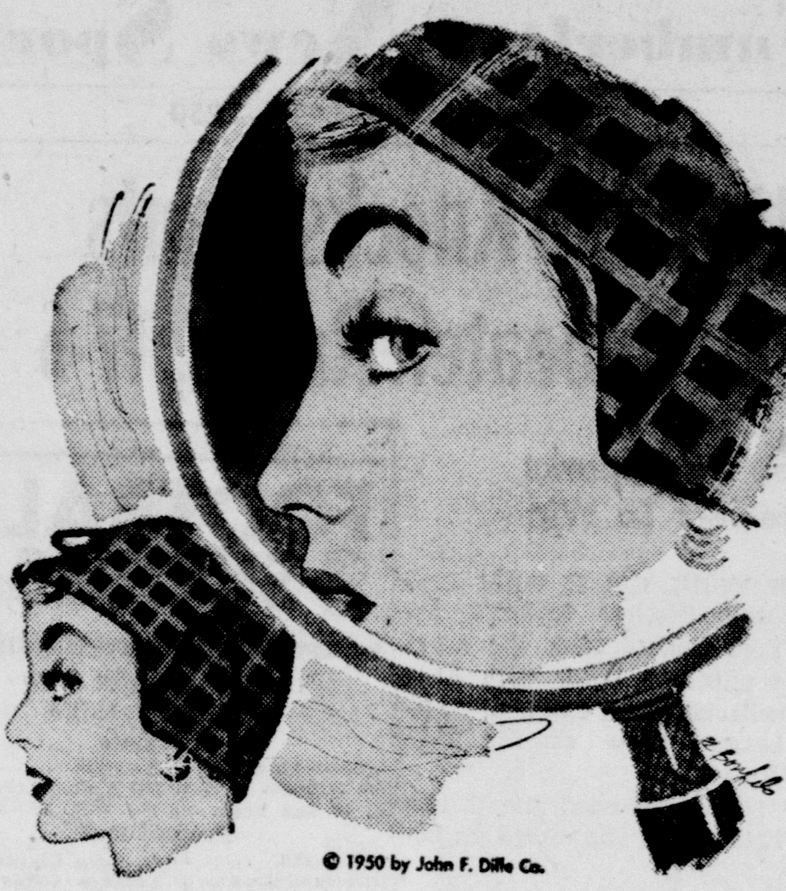
SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS



© 1950 by John F. Dille Co.

To detect the major clues to secrets of your personal charm, follow this column every day this week.

WHEN big business gets charm conscious, it's important news to every woman, no matter what kind of life she leads. Recently, one of my town's large companies, whose women's personnel deals directly with the public as sales representatives and receptionists, asked me to set up a yard stick by which applicants could be measured and graded on charm — the kind of charm that wins friends and influences people in and out of business. More and more, the top brass of big business is realizing that charm, just like brains, education and health, has a definite commercial value.

Six Clues to Charm

It's just as difficult to work out a charm test as an I. Q. test. Try to analyze your own most charming or delightful friend and you'll see why. You'll quickly discover that her charm is derived from a smooth composite of quite a number of attractive qualities.

Some of these are tangible — something that you can definitely appraise.

To illustrate, here are six qualities which business men agree are most important in rating any woman's charm:

1. Does her figure show that she understands self-discipline . . . in that she eats and exercises for beauty?

2. Is her bearing self-assured — erect — graceful?

3. Does her appearance attest to her sense of fitness? How tastefully does she dress to enhance her best points and befit the occasion?

All Denote Care

4. The face that charms never proclaims that it cares not what others think. How expertly are cosmetics applied to make the most of natural good looks?

5. A woman's charm is in exact ratio to the meticulous carrying out of a well-organized grooming schedule. Any omission is a clue to her personal degree of charm.

6. Do her actions and speech show awareness and consideration of the world around her? They largely determine her womanly appeal and the impression she will make.

How well do you rate on the above six clues to charm? You can depend on them to determine how nice you are to have around in both business and social life! Note that not one is a "mysterious something" that any woman is just lucky to possess. All are evidence of the woman's desire to make the most of herself!

TOMORROW: How to appeal to men.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

FRANK SINATRA has brought what a press release describes as his "heart-throbbing personality" to television on a new hour-long musical variety show (CBS-TV 9 p. m. EST Saturdays). Well, it's been a long time since the hearts throbbed so violently, seven years since the first babe allegedly swooned in the middle of one of Frankie's glissandos (at the Riobamba nightclub in the Spring of 1943, in case you keep a record of historic occurrences). Frankie's hair has grown gray at the temples and the teenagers who used to have screaming and fainting fits at the Paramount are now—well, bless my soul—old ladies in their twenties.

It's no longer necessary to call in psychiatrists to determine the effect Frankie has on the girls. ("Increased emotional sensitivity due to mammary hyperesthesia," one psychiatrist explained.) In the interval, though, Sinatra has picked up a lot of assurance, has become a surprisingly good actor, but a rather bad emcee. That last is not necessarily intended as criticism. He doesn't seem very happy as an emcee. He employs the Ed Sullivan technique, if you can call it that, the deprecatory or "Please-forgive-me-but-the-sponsor-insists-I-make-jokes" approach.

In spite of his advancing years, Sinatra has maintained an impenetrable innocence toward the handling of comedy lines. However, when you put him in a sketch with plain ordinary dialogue and other actors, he is a very charming and engaging fellow. C.B.S., I think, has got hold of quite a valuable property in Sinatra but I don't think the Sinatra show is exploiting him very skillfully.

It's rather ordinary revue with Sinatra popping out in front of a curtain from time to time, making with the jokes and then introducing the hoofers. The hoofers were no better and no worse than those on any other show. In fact, they were the same hoofers, Harrison and Kay, who have been on just about everyone's variety show and are entitled to a rest and so am I.

Sinatra's better qualities—charm complicated by hyperesthesia—were displayed to better advantage in a mystifying sketch with J. Carroll Naish, the Luigi of radio's "Life With Luigi" in which they discussed the dignity of man and America. (Both got good marks.) I don't know why this was inserted but I have an idea CBS was trying out "Life With Luigi" to see if it has television possibilities. From the fragment inflicted on us, I should say it hadn't.

• — • — •

Sinatra later teamed with Ben Blue, another permanent member of the entourage, in a pantomine involving an imitation of Charlie Chaplin (Mr. Blue) and Jackie Coogan as The Kid (Mr. Sinatra.) Both of them were very expert and appealing in their roles but the sketch, again, didn't seem to add up to much. Mr. Blue, who has been around show business for what seems like an eon, varies his pantomine bits, at which he is very good, with rowdy dowdy slapstick sketches that should have remained on the vaudeville circuit.

Other regular features of the show are an overpowering twenty-five piece orchestra and the Moon Mists, a mixed vocal quintet. (The people who used to name Pullman cars are now naming vocal quintets, in case you've wondered where these names are coming from.) You can't review the Sinatra show without mentioning the "Voice," which like the office of the Presidency of the United States is automatically capitalized. Well, Mr. Sinatra wasn't in very good Voice for his opening, sounding hoarse and rather strident, but since these jarring dissonances are missing from his current records, I imagine this is a temporary condition. He's still a very finished technicians on popular songs. However, he made a mistake tackling "Ol' Man River," a song that demands more power than he possesses.

• — • — •

The real trouble with the Sinatra show is that no one seems to know what kind of show they want. There is no need for Sinatra to be wandering around in front of a curtain introducing hoofers. No one introduces the hoofers in a stage revue. There is no need for a curtain and there isn't any real need for an audience. The ingenuity of the cameras and the very real ability of Mr. Sinatra are both being stunted by a lack of imagination.

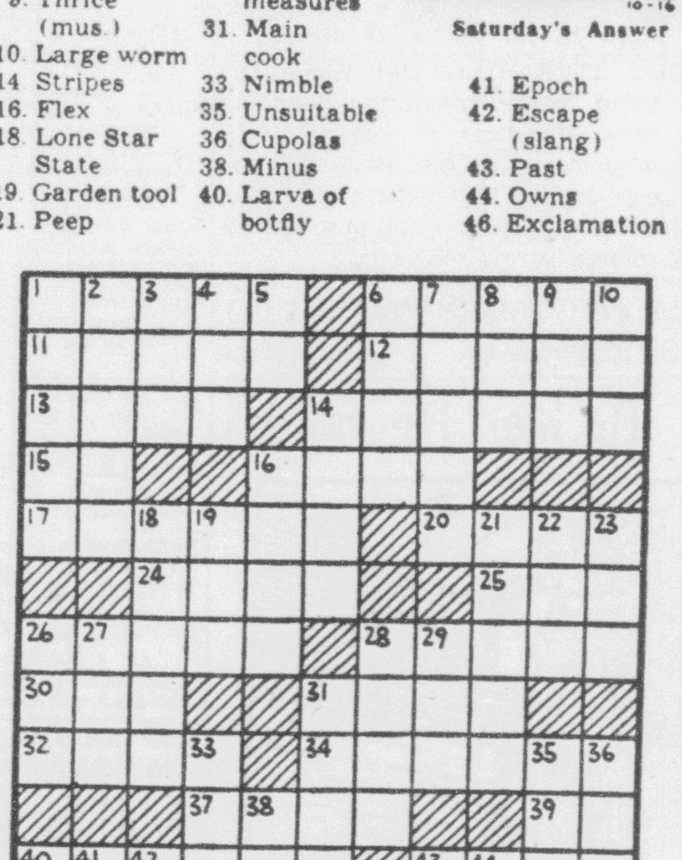
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

FRANK SINATRA has brought what a press release describes as his "heart-throbbing personality" to television on a new hour-long musical variety show (CBS-TV 9 p. m. EST Saturdays). Well, it's been a long time since the hearts throbbed so violently, seven years since the first babe allegedly swooned in the middle of one of Frankie's glissandos (at the Riobamba nightclub in the Spring of 1943, in case you keep a record of historic occurrences). Frankie's hair has grown gray at the temples and the teenagers who used to have screaming and fainting fits at the Paramount are now—well, bless my soul—old ladies in their twenties.

It's no longer necessary to call in psychiatrists to determine the effect Frankie has on the girls. ("Increased emotional sensitivity due to mammary hyperesthesia," one psychiatrist explained.) In the interval, though, Sinatra has picked up a lot of assurance, has become a surprisingly good actor, but a rather bad emcee. That last is not necessarily intended as criticism. He doesn't seem very happy as an emcee. He employs the Ed Sullivan technique, if you can call it that, the deprecatory or "Please-forgive-me-but-the-sponsor-insists-I-make-jokes" approach.

In spite of his advancing years, Sinatra has maintained an impenetrable innocence toward the handling of comedy lines. However, when you put him in a sketch with plain ordinary dialogue and other actors, he is a very charming and engaging fellow. C.B.S., I think, has got hold of quite a valuable property in Sinatra but I don't think the Sinatra show is exploiting him very skillfully.

It's rather ordinary revue with Sinatra popping out in front of a curtain from time to time, making with the jokes and then introducing the hoofers. The hoofers were no better and no worse than those on any other show. In fact, they were the same hoofers, Harrison and Kay, who have been on just about everyone's variety show and are entitled to a rest and so am I.

Sinatra's better qualities — charm complicated by hyperesthesia—were displayed to better advantage in a mystifying sketch with J. Carroll Naish, the Luigi of radio's "Life With Luigi" in which they discussed the dignity of man and America. (Both got good marks.) I don't know why this was inserted but I have an idea CBS was trying out "Life With Luigi" to see if it has television possibilities. From the fragment inflicted on us, I should say it hadn't.

• — • — •

Sinatra later teamed with Ben Blue, another permanent member of the entourage, in a pantomine involving an imitation of Charlie Chaplin (Mr. Blue) and Jackie Coogan as The Kid (Mr. Sinatra.) Both of them were very expert and appealing in their roles but the sketch, again, didn't seem to add up to much. Mr. Blue, who has been around show business for what seems like an eon, varies his pantomine bits, at which he is very good, with rowdy dowdy slapstick sketches that should have remained on the vaudeville circuit.

Other regular features of the show are an overpowering twenty-five piece orchestra and the Moon Mists, a mixed vocal quintet. (The people who used to name Pullman cars are now naming vocal quintets, in case you've wondered where these names are coming from.) You can't review the Sinatra show without mentioning the "Voice," which like the office of the Presidency of the United States is automatically capitalized. Well, Mr. Sinatra wasn't in very good Voice for his opening, sounding hoarse and rather strident, but since these jarring dissonances are missing from his current records, I imagine this is a temporary condition. He's still a very finished technicians on popular songs. However, he made a mistake tackling "Ol' Man River," a song that demands more power than he possesses.

• — • — •

The real trouble with the Sinatra show is that no one seems to know what kind of show they want. There is no need for Sinatra to be wandering around in front of a curtain introducing hoofers. No one introduces the hoofers in a stage revue. There is no need for a curtain and there isn't any real need for an audience. The ingenuity of the cameras and the very real ability of Mr. Sinatra are both being stunted by a lack of imagination.

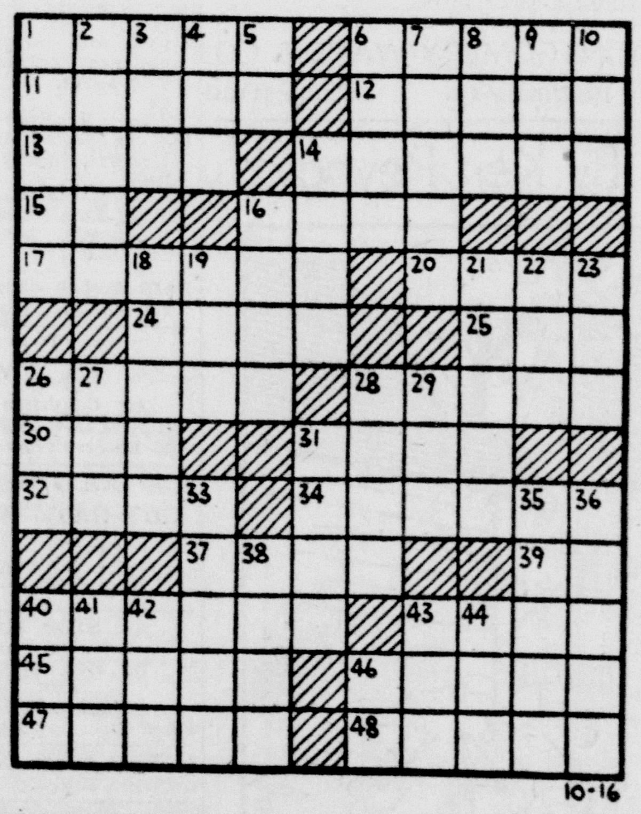
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear wife, and mother, Mrs. Texie Ann Teter, who departed this life eleven years ago today, October 16, 1939.

God calls our loved one, but we lose not wholly
What He hath given;
She lives on earth, in thought and deed,
as truly
As in His heaven.

Garrett County Woman Killed

A Garrett County mother of eight children was killed instantly on U.S. 40 near the Pennsylvania-Maryland state line Friday midnight when she stepped in front of a car.

The victim, Mrs. Madeline Hoff Myers, 36, and her husband, Roy Myers, also 36, started across the road after leaving the Brown Derby restaurant to get into their car when the accident occurred.

Pennsylvania State Police said they would place no charges against the driver of the car, identified as O. R. Wilson, Confluence, Pa.

Police said Myers could offer no explanation for his wife's failure to see the approach of Wilson's car, as the night was clear and visibility good.

The Myers family resides a short distance from Markleysburg, Pa., across the state line in Garrett county in the direction of Friendsville. Myers operates a sawmill and timber business. Survivors include the couple's eight children.

Lane Plans Slash In State Sales Tax

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Oct. 15 (AP)—If Gov. Lane is reelected November 7, he promises to call the Legislature into session November 10 to make cuts in the Maryland sales tax.

"It further pledges its candidates to remove the sales tax from all meals, wherever purchased and consumed, and the exemption of such household articles as soaps, cleansers and products used in the care of infants."

The Republican state platform, incidentally, also calls for the same sales tax reduction. The GOP, however, added a pledge to work for eventual elimination of the levy.

Legless Woman To Resume Nursing Duties Thanks To RCAF, U. S. Fliers

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD., Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkina Mukko, legless for the last 57 years, is returning to her nursing duties at Rigolet, Labrador, with new limbs—thanks to Royal Canadian Air Force and United States airmen at Goose Bay.

The 59-year-old-mother sailed from here for her Labrador home aboard the coastal vessel Kyle. She's returning north "to answer any call I get to act as midwife and nurse."

She was two years old when her trapper father, worried about his sick wife, left the family cabin at Winter's Cove, near Rigolet, to get a doctor. Caught in a blizzard, it took him four days to make the trip. He returned to find a new baby dead and Elizabeth on the floor with both legs frozen. Gangrene had set in.

He cut off her legs below the knees with an ax, then stood her in a flour barrel. The flour stemmed the bleeding.

Three years later the famous Dr. Wilfred Grenfell took her to his hospital at St. Anthony, Nfld. He had tiny artificial limbs made for her. Later the doctor took her to New York, where Dr. John McTavish, a Scottish surgeon, performed 18 operations on her legs and named her Kirkina.

Later she married a trapper. By then Dr. Grenfell was dead and, having no money for legs, she hobbled about on stumps protected by pads.

She raised a family of seven—until 1918, when an influenza epidemic killed her husband and six of her children.

She dug the graves and buried them all. She performed the funeral service since she was the only one in the settlement who could read or write.

Life became tame for Mrs. Mukko so she studied nursing at the St. Anthony Hospital, then served as nurse and midwife for anyone within 35 miles of her home.

"I brought 32 children into the world," she says proudly, "and never lost a mother or baby."

Recently Dr. Tony Paddon, in charge of the St. Anthony Hospital, told R.C.A.F. and American fliers at the Goose Bay airbase about Mrs. Mukko. They chipped in and sent her to St. John's for new artificial limbs.

17. To guard against hasty or partial legislation and encroachments of the Legislative Department upon the coordinate Executive and Judicial Departments, every Bill which shall have passed the House of Delegates, and the Senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the State; if he approves he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it with his objections to the House in which it originated, which House shall enter the objections at large on its Journal and proceed to reconsider the Bill; if, after such reconsideration, three-fifths of the members elected to that House shall pass the Bill, it shall be sent with the objections to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if it pass by three-fifths of the members elected to that House it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the Bill shall be entered on the Journal of each House respectively. If any Bill shall not be returned by the Governor within six days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like maner as if he signed it, unless the General Assembly shall, by adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Any bill which is vetoed by the Governor following the adjournment of the General Assembly, or any bill which fails to become a law by reason of not having been signed by the Governor following the adjournment of the General Assembly, shall be returned to the House in which it originated, immediately after said House shall have organized at the next regular or special session of the General Assembly. Said bill may then be reconsidered according to the procedure specified hereinabove. If the bill is passed over the veto of the Governor, it shall take effect on June 1 following, unless the bill is an emergency measure to take effect when passed.

The Governor shall have power to disapprove of any item or items of any Bills making appropriations of money embracing distinct items, and the part or parts of the Bill approved shall be the law, and the item or items of appropriations disapproved shall be void unless repassed according to the rules or limitations prescribed for the passage of other Bills over the Executive veto.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That said aforegoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election to be held in November, 1950, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment," and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article.

Garrett County Woman Killed

A Garrett County mother of eight children was killed instantly on U.S. 40 near the Pennsylvania-Maryland state line Friday midnight when she stepped in front of a car.

The victim, Mrs. Madeline Hoff Myers, 36, and her husband, Roy Myers, also 36, started across the road after leaving the Brown Derby restaurant to get into their car when the accident occurred.

Pennsylvania State Police said they would place no charges against the driver of the car, identified as O. R. Wilson, Confluence, Pa.

Police said Myers could offer no explanation for his wife's failure to see the approach of Wilson's car, as the night was clear and visibility good.

The Myers family resides a short distance from Markleysburg, Pa., across the state line in Garrett county in the direction of Friendsville. Myers operates a sawmill and timber business. Survivors include the couple's eight children.

Lane Plans Slash In State Sales Tax

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Oct. 15 (AP)—If Gov. Lane is reelected November 7, he promises to call the Legislature into session November 10 to make cuts in the Maryland sales tax.

"The Democratic platform pledges me, as its candidate for governor, and a Democratic legislature, to eliminate from sales tax all purchases under 50 cents," Lane told a rally in this St. Mary's County seat last night.

"It further pledges its candidates to remove the sales tax from all meals, wherever purchased and consumed, and the exemption of such household articles as soaps, cleansers and products used in the care of infants."

The Republican state platform, incidentally, also calls for the same sales tax reduction. The GOP, however, added a pledge to work for eventual elimination of the levy.

Legless Woman To Resume Nursing Duties Thanks To RCAF, U. S. Fliers

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD., Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkina Mukko, legless for the last 57 years, is returning to her nursing duties at Rigolet, Labrador, with new limbs—thanks to Royal Canadian Air Force and United States airmen at Goose Bay.

The 59-year-old-mother sailed from here for her Labrador home aboard the coastal vessel Kyle. She's returning north "to answer any call I get to act as midwife and nurse."

She was two years old when her trapper father, worried about his sick wife, left the family cabin at Winter's Cove, near Rigolet, to get a doctor. Caught in a blizzard, it took him four days to make the trip. He returned to find a new baby dead and Elizabeth on the floor with both legs frozen. Gangrene had set in.

He cut off her legs below the knees with an ax, then stood her in a flour barrel. The flour stemmed the bleeding.

Three years later the famous Dr. Wilfred Grenfell took her to his hospital at St. Anthony, Nfld. He had tiny artificial limbs made for her. Later the doctor took her to New York, where Dr. John McTavish, a Scottish surgeon, performed 18 operations on her legs and named her Kirkina.

Later she married a trapper. By then Dr. Grenfell was dead and, having no money for legs, she hobbled about on stumps protected by pads.

She raised a family of seven—until 1918, when an influenza epidemic killed her husband and six of her children.

She dug the graves and buried them all. She performed the funeral service since she was the only one in the settlement who could read or write.

Life became tame for Mrs. Mukko so she studied nursing at the St. Anthony Hospital, then served as nurse and midwife for anyone within 35 miles of her home.

"I brought 32 children into the world," she says proudly, "and never lost a mother or baby."

Recently Dr. Tony Paddon, in charge of the St. Anthony Hospital, told R.C.A.F. and American fliers at the Goose Bay airbase about Mrs. Mukko. They chipped in and sent her to St. John's for new artificial limbs.

One Killed, Six Injured In Car-Truck Collision

Manns Choice Postmaster Is Victim

Mishap Occurs On Route 51 At Oldtown; Paw Paw Couple Hurt

Seven persons were injured, one fatally and five seriously, in a two-car collision early yesterday afternoon on State Route 51, about one mile east of Oldtown.

The 67-year-old postmaster of Manns Choice, Pa., Asa Buckey Sams, who was riding in a car with three others, was killed instantly when the car and a truck also carrying four persons came together at high speed almost directly in front of the Oldtown Pentacostal Church.

The injured are:

Edgar Burkett, 63, Manns Choice, Pa., driver of the car, who suffered two fractured ankles, chest injuries and multiple face lacerations.

Mrs. Zora Sams, 60, Manns Choice, wife of the deceased postmaster, neck injury and lacerations of the face.

Mrs. Mae Burkett, 62, wife of the car driver and a clerk in the Manns Choice post office, lacerations of the face and forehead and back injuries.

Samuel Lyons, 44, of Paw Paw, W. Va., operator of Lyons Restaurant there, who was driving the truck, suffered lacerations of the chin and left leg.

Larry Patton, 15, his brother, was not injured and was released after being examined at the hospital.

The injured were admitted to Memorial Hospital, where they were reported "resting comfortably" late last night.

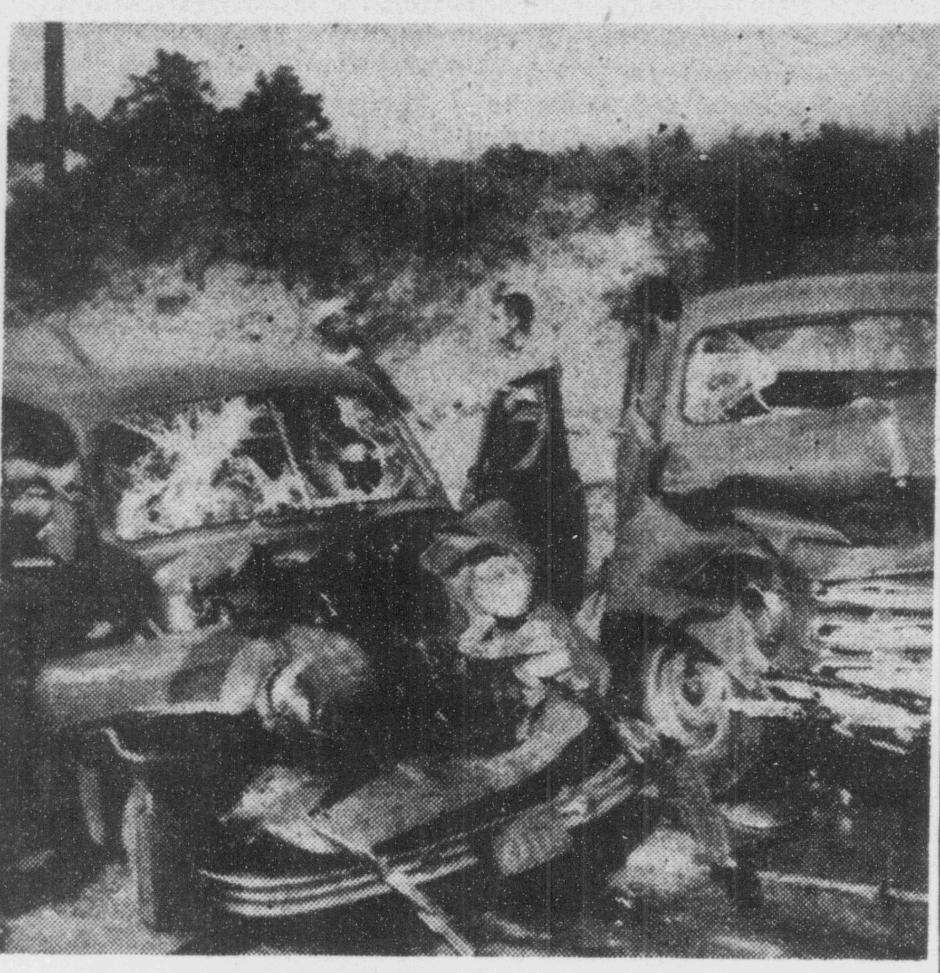
State Trooper George Coddington, who is investigating the crash, fixed the time at about 1:45 p.m. The road was dry, weather clear and the highway straight at the point of impact, the officer said.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who pronounced Mr. Sams dead, said the postmaster was killed instantly. It was believed he was riding in the front seat of the car, alongside Burkett who was driving. Their wives, witnesses said, were riding in the back seat.

Coddington said the driver of the truck, Samuel Lyons, told him he was traveling in a westerly direction when a car ahead turned north off 51. In trying to avoid hitting this vehicle, Lyons told the officer, the truck collided head-on with the Burkett car, which was traveling eastward.

Trooper Coddington said Lyons and his wife were riding in the cab of the truck, and the two Cumberland boys were hitchikers they had picked up a short time before. The two boys were riding in the back of the pickup.

Coddington said Lyons is being held for court action on a possible charge of manslaughter with a motor vehicle.



Fatal Car-Truck Crash

This picture was taken minutes after a car and a truck collided head-on yesterday afternoon about a mile west of Oldtown on Route 51, injuring seven people, one fatally. As can be seen in the photo, the truck on the right and auto on the left were badly damaged by the impact.

Father Of Piedmont Doctor Is Killed

No details of the mishap could be learned as Dr. and Mrs. Berry and their son Ervin Berry, left for Drexel soon after learning of the accident.

Chest Provides Method Of Paying Debt To Community

"What do I owe my community?" is a question each individual must answer before closing of the Community Chest campaign which lacks the 'last bit' to make it another successful venture, Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman, declared over the weekend as the campaign was extended until noon Wednesday.

It was answered in the will of the late E. P. Adler, Davenport, Iowa, publisher, who summed up his philosophy of life and acceptance of the debt he felt he owed his community as follows:

"Being mindful that the City of Davenport and its people have, during my lifetime in their midst, been extremely kind and generous to me in my efforts and have enabled me, by their loyal support, to become successful, I wish to acknowledge my appreciation of such support by contributing insofar as I am able, toward the perpetuation of some of the institutions, the maintenance of which guarantees a better citizenship and a cleaner municipal life, while at the same time providing for those temporarily unfortunate.

"I am a firm believer in the idea that every man who comes into a community a stranger, and is enabled to amass a competence, should show his appreciation to the people who have made it possible for him to succeed, in two ways. First by giving up a portion of his time, while living, to public work and to doing the things which are necessary to be done, in a public way, for helping others, and in building up a better city and a more satisfied people. And, at his death, he should show his further appreciation in a substantial way, by contributing to the institutions which look for public support to carry on their worthy work among the sick and unfortunate."

Wilkinson Hits Fee System Of Tax Collection

Wants Board To Put Job On Salary Basis

A proposal will be put before the Board of Allegany County Commissioners tomorrow to remove the County Tax Collector in Tax District No. 1 from a fee or commission system, and have the job placed on a full-time salaried basis to reduce the cost of tax collecting.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board, said last night he has prepared a resolution which will be presented to the Board at tomorrow's meeting, calling for the change.

Through the years, Wilkinson said, with the cost of county government mounting steadily, and the amount of taxes collected increasing considerably from year to year, the fee system of tax collecting is costing the taxpayers an exorbitant amount.

In the less than four-year period already covered by the present administration and collector, Wilkinson said, the collector in District No. 1 is credited with a total of $70,923.02 in fees, and the amount will be greater by the time all collections are in.

County records show the collector has already received $59,601.25 and there is still due him $11,314.77, which he is to be paid after the year is closed and the regular audit completed.

County Costs Increase

Ten years ago, in 1940, the levy called for a total of $1,583,192.07 to operate the county, and tax on real and personal property brought in, according to the levy, $1,315,800, on which tax collectors were paid commissions.

For the year 1950, the levy shows it is costing almost twice as much to operate the county, with a total appropriations of $3,037,849.13. Of that amount, $2,146,300 is coming from direct taxes on real and personal property on which the collectors are paid commissions.

Wilkinson said no more effort is necessary now to collect the additional million dollars than was required to collect lesser amount 10 years ago.

"Yet, this county," he declared, "is still operating in the horse and buggy days, so far as the collection system is concerned."

Wilkinson said increased costs in federal government for defense purposes, and increased costs in the state government to support schools, build roads and rejuvinate the state's run-down institutions, make it imperative that county and local governments do everything possible to relieve the people of heavy tax burdens.

"It seems foolish to pay out around $20,000 per year to collect taxes when the job could be done by a competent person on a salary of $5,000 or $6,000 per year," Wilkinson declared.

In 1933, only 17 years ago, he observed, Allegany County was operated on a budget of $1,102,319 with a tax rate of $1.20, Wilkinson noted. This year, the budget, for the first time in county history, passed the three million dollar mark, with a tax rate of $1.69.

Refused To Sign Levy

Wilkinson said he refused to sign the current levy because he believes the tax rate and cost of government too high, but that the Board overrode his objection.

In 1947, Wilkinson noted, the Tax Collector at the Court House was paid $17,577.92. In 1948 his commissions totaled $17,748.99. For the 1949 levy, his commissions totaled $18,837.24, and this year his commissions have already amounted to $16,704.79 and will total close to $22,000 when the job is finished.

Ten years ago, the collector received about half that amount, Wilkinson said.

Brings Report On CARE

Miss Marcia Ann Hilton, 130 Oak Street, who visited here over the weekend, is seen here talking with Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany High School, where she graduated last June. Miss Hilton is now employed in the Educational Division of CARE in New York, and is helping promote the distribution of CARE packages to foreign needy by programs in school papers throughout the country. While here for a brief visit, she contacted Webster to tell him of the program which was originated in Allegany, and which resulted in the job opportunity for Miss Hilton.

Marcia Hilton Finds Career In Desire To Help Others

While she was editor of the Alcohi Mirror at Allegany High School, Miss Marcia Ann Hilton, 130 Oak Street, helped organize and direct a novel relief drive which was designed to interest students in the welfare needs here at home, as well as those abroad.

As a result of her activity and her enthusiasm and interest in the project, Miss Hilton is now extending her ideas to all high schools and high school papers throughout the country.

Now employed in the Educational Unit of CARE, (Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe), Miss Hilton was home over the weekend and visited some of her former teachers at Allegany and other friends here.

She is quite enthusiastic about her work and says her experience at Allegany actually led to her employment by Milton Smith, educational director of CARE in the New York headquarters.

Enlists School Aid

Marcia prepares bulletins, pamphlets and posters for distribution to high school papers throughout the country, designed to enlist their aid in supplying CARE packages for needy people abroad, and to interest high school students in general in the need for welfare and relief and the responsibility they have as good Americans.

She said the CARE program extends to almost every land outside the Communist sphere, and thousands of packages are mailed or shipped regularly to needy abroad. She said many Cumberlanders take part in the program.

A CARE package containing food, clothing or blankets can be sent for $10, and the program is designed to assure delivery to a specific family or individual designated, or to someone investigated and found to be in want.

Countries or Central Europe are aided, as are also China, Japan, the Phillipines and others.

Likes New Career

She said she is not only happy of the opportunity to engage in welfare work, but is glad to be in New York because she can now enroll in Columbia University, where she plans to study journalism. She will enroll in February, work during the day and attend night classes.

When she finishes, she said she hopes to teach journalism in high school, and to encourage all students to take a broader interest in civic affairs, especially those programs and projects designed to lend a helping hand to folks in need.

Trooper Cleared In Death Of Gilmore Child

State Trooper Maynard J. Whitney, 28, Fairgo, was acquitted Saturday in Trial Magistrates Court on a manslaughter charge involving the highway death of a five-year-old Gilmore boy.

Whitney, who was enroute to Lonaconing while on leave from Barracks B at Frederick when the mishap occurred on Route 36 Friday afternoon, was questioned concerning the fatal injuries sustained by Richard Thomas Winner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner.

A warrant for his arrest was obtained Saturday from Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti after witnesses were questioned in the State's Attorney's office.

The child died enroute to Memorial Hospital here, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

William J. Weir, 47, Route 1, Lonaconing, an uncle of the dead boy, testified he saw the fatal accident occur after he pulled his car off the road and parked to visit a sister at Knapp's Meadow. Chasing a dog, young Winner ran from a driveway and on to the highway from behind another parked vehicle.

Weir, a mail carrier, said the boy was still running when the right front fender of Whitney's southbound car struck and knocked him unconscious.

According to the witness, Whitney applied his brakes and attempted to avoid hitting the child.

Trooper John F. Browning, who investigated, said Whitney was traveling within the 50-mile speed limit zone and did not see the child in time to stop. Skid marks on the highway verified his testimony.

The boy's body is at the home. A requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow 9:30 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Midland. Interment will take place in St. Ann's Cemetery, Avilton.

Moses Bowers, Local Youth, Dies Of Polio

Victim, 14, Was Placed In "Lung"

A 14-year-old local youth died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital of infantile paralysis, the second victim of polio in the Cumberland area this fall.

He was Moses Bowers, son of Harry and Arrene Orndorff Bowers, 332 Davidson Street.

Hospital attaches said the youth was placed in an iron lung after being admitted to the hospital on Friday. He had been ill since last Monday.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer, said the case was not reported to the Health Department by Friday, probably because a diagnosis had not been made at that time.

Betty Jane Hess, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Hess, LaVale, died September 1 of polio. Her death was the first infantile paralysis fatality in the Cumberland area since 1947.

The Bowers youth was a ninth grade student at Fort Hill High School and was a member of the Supreme Council of House of Jacob.

Gunter Chides Lane's Pledge On Sales Tax

Cites Promise Of Special Session

William A. Gunter, local attorney and Republican candidate for attorney general of Maryland, yesterday chided Governor Lane for making reductions in the state sales tax conditional upon his reelection.

The governor announced Saturday he would call the Legislature into session November 10, providing he wins in the general election November 7.

"I see by the papers "Gunter said," that the resourceful Mr. Lane has now publicly promised, if elected, to call a special session of the Maryland Legislature to make a 25 per cent reduction in the sales tax as advocated in the platform of the Republicans.

"Three months ago, Mr. Lane was shouting from the housetops that his Democratic opponent, Mr. George P. Mahoney, was incompetent and insane to suggest a 15 per cent reduction.

"Why does Mr. Lane only promise a special session to reduce taxes if elected?

Has Mandate Now

"Everyone now agrees, Republican and Democrats alike, that a 25 per cent reduction is possible, so Mr. Lane has already gotten his mandate from the people for the tax reduction.

"Why make the tax reduction contingent upon his election?

"Why not be honest about the matter and let Lane say, even though he loses the election, that he can call a special session November 10 and grant such tax relief to the tax burdened citizens of Maryland?

"Such half promises show the Democratic nominee is still groggy from the recent tax beating given him by George P. Mahoney. Joe Louis, a few weeks ago, had to take an awful beating at the hands of Ezzard Charles so he could pay his taxes.

"Governor Lane now has to promise tax reduction which Theodore McKeldin and the Republicans have forced upon him in order to stave off the knockout punch which is surely coming to him November 7."

Expenses incurred in the primary campaign were filed here Saturday by Gunter.

The only contribution was a four-cent Canadian stamp donated by Owen Hitchins.

Plans Week's Tour

Expenses included $270 to the Secretary of State for filing fee, $70 for traveling expenses and meals and an estimated 70 cents for Maryland Sales Tax.

With Rep. J. Glenn Beall, he will tour Garrett County today.

Tomorrow, Gunter will join top Republican candidates for a tour of Carroll, Dorchester, Wicomoco, Somerset and Worcester Counties.

Republican rallies will be held each night at the county court houses.

Gunter said the GOP candidates have been speaking to enthusiastic audiences everywhere.

The people of Maryland, he added, are really tax conscious and are vitally interested in the Republican platform.

One Killed, Six Injured In Car-Truck Collision

Manns Choice Postmaster Is Victim

Mishap Occurs On Route 51 At Oldtown; Paw Paw Couple Hurt

Seven persons were injured, one fatally and five seriously, in a two-car collision early yesterday afternoon on State Route 51, about one mile east of Oldtown.

The 67-year-old postmaster of Manns Choice, Pa., Asa Buckey Sams, who was riding in a car with three others, was killed instantly when the car and a truck also carrying four persons came together at high speed almost directly in front of the Oldtown Pentacostal Church.

The injured are:

Edgar Burkett, 63, Manns Choice, Pa., driver of the car, who suffered two fractured ankles, chest injuries and multiple face lacerations.

Mrs. Zora Sams, 60, Manns Choice, wife of the deceased postmaster, neck injury and lacerations of the face.

Mrs. Mae Burkett, 62, wife of the car driver and a clerk in the Manns Choice post office, lacerations of the face and forehead and back injuries.

Samuel Lyons, 44, of Paw Paw, W. Va., operator of Lyons Restaurant there, who was driving the truck, suffered lacerations of the chin and left leg.

Mrs. Edna Lyons, 42, his wife, sustained a fractured left ankle, a dislocated left high and an injury to her right knee.

Larry Patton, 15, his brother, was not injured and was released after being examined at the hospital.

The injured were admitted to Memorial Hospital, where they were reported "resting comfortably" late last night.

State Trooper George Coddington, who is investigating the crash, fixed the time at about 1:45 p.m. The road was dry, weather clear and the highway straight at the point of impact, the officer said.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who pronounced Mr. Sams dead, said the postmaster was killed instantly. It was believed he was riding in the front seat of the car, alongside Burkett who was driving. Their wives, witnesses said, were riding in the back seat.

Coddington said the driver of the truck, Samuel Lyons, told him he was traveling in a westerly direction when a car ahead turned north off 51. In trying to avoid hitting this vehicle, Lyons told the officer, the truck collided head-on with the Burkett car, which was traveling eastward.

Trooper Coddington said Lyons and his wife were riding in the cab of the truck, and the two Cumberland boys were hitchikers they had picked up a short time before. The two boys were riding in the back of the pickup.

Coddington said Lyons is being held for court action on a possible charge of manslaughter with a motor vehicle.

Chest Provides Method Of Paying Debt To Community

"What do I owe my community?" is a question each individual must answer before closing of the Community Chest campaign which lacks the 'last bit' to make it another successful venture, Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman, declared over the weekend as the campaign was extended until noon Wednesday.

It was answered in the will of the late E. P. Adler, Davenport, Iowa, publisher, who summed up his philosophy of life and acceptance of the debt he felt he owed his community as follows:

"Being mindful that the City of Davenport and its people have, during my lifetime in their midst, been extremely kind and generous to me in my efforts and have enabled me, by their loyal support, to become successful, I wish to acknowledge my appreciation of such support by contributing insofar as I am able, toward the perpetuation of some of the institutions, the maintenance of which guarantees a better citizenship and a cleaner municipal life, while at the same time providing for those temporarily unfortunate.

"I am a firm believer in the idea that every man who comes into a community a stranger, and is enabled to amass a competence, should show his appreciation to the people who have made it possible for him to succeed, in two ways. First by giving up a portion of his time, while living, to public work and to doing the things which are necessary to be done, in a public way, for helping others, and in building up a better city and a more satisfied people. And, at his death, he should show his further appreciation in a substantial way, by contributing to the institutions which look for public support to carry on their worthy work among the sick and unfortunate."

Wilkinson Hits Fee System Of Tax Collection

Wants Board To Put Job On Salary Basis

A proposal will be put before the Board of Allegany County Commissioners tomorrow to remove the County Tax Collector in Tax District No. 1 from a fee or commission system, and have the job placed on a full-time salaried basis to reduce the cost of tax collecting.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board, said last night he has prepared a resolution which will be presented to the Board at tomorrow's meeting, calling for the change.

Through the years, Wilkinson said, with the cost of county government mounting steadily, and the amount of taxes collected increasing considerably from year to year, the fee system of tax collecting is costing the taxpayers an exorbitant amount.

In the less than four-year period already covered by the present administration and collector, Wilkinson said, the collector in District No. 1 is credited with a total of $70,923.02 in fees, and the amount will be greater by the time all collections are in.

County records show the collector has already received $59,601.25 and there is still due him $11,314.77, which he is to be paid after the year is closed and the regular audit completed.

County Costs Increase

Ten years ago, in 1940, the levy called for a total of $1,583,192.07 to operate the county, and tax on real and personal property brought in, according to the levy, $1,315,800, on which tax collectors were paid commissions.

For the year 1950, the levy shows it is costing almost twice as much to operate the county, with a total appropriations of $3,037,849.13. Of that amount, $2,146,300 is coming from direct taxes on real and personal property on which the collectors are paid commissions.

Wilkinson said no more effort is necessary now to collect the additional million dollars than was required to collect lesser amount 10 years ago.

"Yet, this county," he declared, "is still operating in the horse and buggy days, so far as the collection system is concerned."

Wilkinson said increased costs in federal government for defense purposes, and increased costs in the state government to support schools, build roads and rejuvinate the state's run-down institutions, make it imperative that county and local governments do everything possible to relieve the people of heavy tax burdens.

"It seems foolish to pay out around $20,000 per year to collect taxes when the job could be done by a competent person on a salary of $5,000 or $6,000 per year," Wilkinson declared.

In 1933, only 17 years ago, he observed, Allegany County was operated on a budget of $1,102,319 with a tax rate of $1.20, Wilkinson noted. This year, the budget, for the first time in county history, passed the three million dollar mark, with a tax rate of $1.69.

Refused To Sign Levy

Wilkinson said he refused to sign the current levy because he believes the tax rate and cost of government too high, but that the Board overrode his objection.

In 1947, Wilkinson noted, the Tax Collector at the Court House was paid $17,577.92. In 1948 his commissions totaled $17,748.99. For the 1949 levy, his commissions totaled $18,837.24, and this year his commissions have already amounted to $16,704.79 and will total close to $22,000 when the job is finished.

Ten years ago, the collector received about half that amount, Wilkinson said.

Brings Report On CARE

Miss Marcia Ann Hilton, 130 Oak Street, who visited here over the weekend, is seen here talking with Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany High School, where she graduated last June. Miss Hilton is now employed in the Educational Division of CARE in New York, and is helping promote the distribution of CARE packages to foreign needy by programs in school papers throughout the country. While here for a brief visit, she contacted Webster to tell him of the program which was originated in Allegany, and which resulted in the job opportunity for Miss Hilton.

Marcia Hilton Finds Career In Desire To Help Others

While she was editor of the Alcohi Mirror at Allegany High School, Miss Marcia Ann Hilton, 130 Oak Street, helped organize and direct a novel relief drive which was designed to interest students in the welfare needs here at home, as well as those abroad.

As a result of her activity and her enthusiasm and interest in the project, Miss Hilton is now extending her ideas to all high schools and high school papers throughout the country.

Now employed in the Educational Unit of CARE, (Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe), Miss Hilton was home over the weekend and visited some of her former teachers at Allegany and other friends here.

She is quite enthusiastic about her work and says her experience at Allegany actually led to her employment by Milton Smith, educational director of CARE in the New York headquarters.

Enlists School Aid

Marcia prepares bulletins, pamphlets and posters for distribution to high school papers throughout the country, designed to enlist their aid in supplying CARE packages for needy people abroad, and to interest high school students in general in the need for welfare and relief and the responsibility they have as good Americans.

She said the CARE program extends to almost every land outside the Communist sphere, and thousands of packages are mailed or shipped regularly to needy abroad. She said many Cumberlanders take part in the program.

A CARE package containing food, clothing or blankets can be sent for $10, and the program is designed to assure delivery to a specific family or individual designated, or to someone investigated and found to be in want.

Countries or Central Europe are aided, as are also China, Japan, the Phillipines and others.

Likes New Career

She said she is not only happy of the opportunity to engage in welfare work, but is glad to be in New York because she can now enroll in Columbia University, where she plans to study journalism. She will enroll in February, work during the day and attend night classes.

When she finishes, she said she hopes to teach journalism in high school, and to encourage all students to take a broader interest in civic affairs, especially those programs and projects designed to lend a helping hand to folks in need.

Trooper Cleared In Death Of Gilmore Child

State Trooper Maynard J. Whitney, 28, Fairgo, was acquitted Saturday in Trial Magistrates Court on a manslaughter charge involving the highway death of a five-year-old Gilmore boy.

Whitney, who was enroute to Lonaconing while on leave from Barracks B at Frederick when the mishap occurred on Route 36 Friday afternoon, was questioned concerning the fatal injuries sustained by Richard Thomas Winner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner.

A warrant for his arrest was obtained Saturday from Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti after witnesses were questioned in the State's Attorney's office.

The child died enroute to Memorial Hospital here, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

William J. Weir, 47, Route 1, Lonaconing, an uncle of the dead boy, testified he saw the fatal accident occur after he pulled his car off the road and parked to visit a sister at Knapp's Meadow. Chasing a dog, young Winner ran from a driveway and on to the highway from behind another parked vehicle.

Weir, a mail carrier, said the boy was still running when the right front fender of Whitney's southbound car struck and knocked him unconscious.

According to the witness, Whitney applied his brakes and attempted to avoid hitting the child.

Trooper John F. Browning, who investigated, said Whitney was traveling within the 50-mile speed limit zone and did not see the child in time to stop. Skid marks on the highway verified his testimony.

The boy's body is at the home. A requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow 9:30 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Midland. Interment will take place in St. Ann's Cemetery, Avilton.

Moses Bowers, Local Youth, Dies Of Polio

Victim, 14, Was Placed In "Lung"

A 14-year-old local youth died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital of infantile paralysis, the second victim of polio in the Cumberland area this fall.

He was Moses Bowers, son of Harry and Arrene Orndorff Bowers, 332 Davidson Street.

Hospital attaches said the youth was placed in an iron lung after being admitted to the hospital on Friday. He had been ill since last Monday.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer, said the case was not reported to the Health Department by Friday, probably because a diagnosis had not been made at that time.

Betty Jane Hess, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Hess, LaVale, died September 1 of polio. Her death was the first infantile paralysis fatality in the Cumberland area since 1947.

The Bowers youth was a ninth grade student at Fort Hill High School and was a member of the Supreme Council of House of Jacob.

Gunter Chides Lane's Pledge On Sales Tax

Cites Promise Of Special Session

William A. Gunter, local attorney and Republican candidate for attorney general of Maryland, yesterday chided Governor Lane for making reductions in the state sales tax conditional upon his reelection.

The governor announced Saturday he would call the Legislature into session November 10, providing he wins in the general election November 7.

"I see by the papers "Gunter said," that the resourceful Mr. Lane has now publicly promised, if elected, to call a special session of the Maryland Legislature to make a 25 per cent reduction in the sales tax as advocated in the platform of the Republicans.

"Three months ago, Mr. Lane was shouting from the housetops that his Democratic opponent, Mr. George P. Mahoney, was incompetent and insane to suggest a 15 per cent reduction.

"Why does Mr. Lane only promise a special session to reduce taxes if elected?

Has Mandate Now

"Everyone now agrees, Republican and Democrats alike, that a 25 per cent reduction is possible, so Mr. Lane has already gotten his mandate from the people for the tax reduction.

"Why make the tax reduction contingent upon his election?

"Why not be honest about the matter and let Lane say, even though he loses the election, that he can call a special session November 10 and grant such tax relief to the tax burdened citizens of Maryland?

"Such half promises show the Democratic nominee is still groggy from the recent tax beating given him by George P. Mahoney. Joe Louis, a few weeks ago, had to take an awful beating at the hands of Ezzard Charles so he could pay his taxes.

"Governor Lane now has to promise tax reduction which Theodore McKeldin and the Republicans have forced upon him in order to stave off the knockout punch which is surely coming to him November 7."

Expenses incurred in the primary campaign were filed here Saturday by Gunter.

The only contribution was a four-cent Canadian stamp donated by Owen Hitchins.

Plans Week's Tour

Expenses included $270 to the Secretary of State for filing fee, $70 for traveling expenses and meals and an estimated 70 cents for Maryland Sales Tax.

With Rep. J. Glenn Beall, he will tour Garrett County today.

Tomorrow, Gunter will join top Republican candidates for a tour of Carroll, Dorchester, Wicomoco, Somerset and Worcester Counties.

Republican rallies will be held each night at the county court houses.

Gunter said the GOP candidates have been speaking to enthusiastic audiences everywhere.

The people of Maryland, he added, are really tax conscious and are vitally interested in the Republican platform.
